DESIGNATION OF BENEFICIARY(IES)

I designate the individual(s) named below as my primary and contingent beneficiary of my account. I understand that I may change or add beneficiaries at any time by completing and delivering to M2 Trust a new beneficiary Designation.

Note: If you are married and designate a primary beneficiary other than your spouse, your spouse must sign the spousal consent wavier below if you reside in a community property state. This SIMPLE (Savings Incentive Match Plan for Employees) Individual Retirement Account Custodial Agreement, hereinafter referred to as the "Agreement," is made by and between M2 Trust Services, LLC ("M2 Trust"), hereinafter referred to as "Custodian", and each individual, herein after referred to as "Account Holder" or "you," who executes a SIMPLE IRA Adoption Agreement, incorporating the terms of this Agreement, for the purpose of establishing a SIMPLE individual retirement account, hereinafter referred to as the "Custodial Account" or "Account" under section 408(a) and 408(p) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, or any successor statute (herein after called the "Code". The custodian named above has given the participant the disclosure statement required by Regulations section 1.408-6. The Account Holder and the Custodian make the following agreement.

Article I

The custodian will accept cash contributions made on behalf of the participant by the participant's employer under the terms of a SIMPLE IRA plan described in section 408(p). In addition, the custodian will accept transfers or rollovers from other SIMPLE IRAs of the participant and, after the 2-year period of participation defined in section 72(t)(6), transfers or rollovers from any eligible retirement plan (as defined in section 402(c)(8)(B)) other than a Roth IRA or a designated Roth account. No other contributions will be accepted by the custodian.

Article II

The participant's interest in the balance in the custodial account is nonforfeitable.

Article III

1. No part of the custodial account funds may be invested in life insurance contracts, nor may the assets of the custodial account be commingled with other property except in a common trust fund or common investment fund (within the meaning of section 408(a)(5)).

2. No part of the custodial account funds may be invested in collectibles (within the meaning of section 408(m)) except as otherwise permitted by section 408(m)(3), which provides an exception for certain gold, silver, and platinum coins, coins issued under the laws of any state, and certain bullion.

Article IV

1. Notwithstanding any provision of this agreement to the contrary, the distribution of the participant's interest in the custodial account shall be made in accordance with the following requirements and shall otherwise comply with section 408(a)(6) and the regulations thereunder, the provisions of which are herein incorporated by reference.

2. The participant's entire interest in the custodial account must be, or begin to be, distributed not later than the participant's required beginning date, April 1 following the calendar year in which the participant reaches age 70½. By that date, the participant may elect, in a manner acceptable to the custodian, to have the balance in the custodial account distributed in:

(a) A single sum or

(b) Payments over a period not longer than the life of the participant or the joint lives of the participant and his or her designated beneficiary.

3. If the participant dies before his or her entire interest is distributed to him or her, the remaining interest will be distributed as follows.

(a) If the participant dies on or after the required beginning date and:

(i) The designated beneficiary is the participant's surviving spouse, the remaining interest will be distributed over the surviving spouse's life expectancy as determined each year until such spouse's death, or over the period in paragraph (a)(iii) below if longer. Any interest remaining after the spouse's death will be distributed over such spouse's remaining life expectancy as determined in the year of the spouse's death and reduced by 1 for each subsequent year, or, if distributions are being made over the period in paragraph (a)(iii) below, over such period.

(ii) The designated beneficiary is not the participant's surviving spouse, the remaining interest will be distributed over the beneficiary's remaining life expectancy as determined in the year following the death of the participant and reduced by 1 for each subsequent year, or over the period in paragraph (a)(iii) below if longer.

(iii) There is no designated beneficiary, the remaining interest will be distributed over the remaining life expectancy of the participant as determined in the year of the participant's death and reduced by 1 for each subsequent year.

(b) If the participant dies before the required beginning date, the remaining interest will be distributed in accordance with paragraph (i) below or, if elected or there is no designated beneficiary, in accordance with paragraph (ii) below.

(i) The remaining interest will be distributed in accordance with paragraphs (a)(i) and (a)(ii) above (but not over the period in paragraph (a)(iii), even if longer), starting by the end of the calendar year following the year of the participant's death. If, however, the designated beneficiary is the participant's surviving spouse, then this distribution is not required to begin before the end of the calendar year in which the participant would have reached age 70½. But, in such case, if the participant's surviving spouse dies before distributions are required to begin, then the remaining interest will be distributed in accordance with paragraph (a)(ii) above (but not over the period in paragraph (a)(iii), even if longer), over such spouse's designated beneficiary's life expectancy, or in accordance with paragraph (ii) below if there is no such designated beneficiary.

(ii) The remaining interest will be distributed by the end of the calendar year containing the fifth anniversary of the participant's death.

4. If the participant dies before his or her entire interest has been distributed and if the designated beneficiary is not the participant's surviving spouse, no additional contributions may be accepted in the account.

5. The minimum amount that must be distributed each year, beginning with the year containing the participant's required beginning date, is known as the "required minimum distribution" and is determined as follows.

(a) The required minimum distribution under paragraph 2(b) for any year, beginning with the year the participant reaches age 70½, is the participant's account value at the close of business on December 31 of the preceding year divided by the distribution period in the uniform lifetime table in Regulations section 1.401(a)(9)-9. However, if the participant's designated beneficiary is his or her surviving spouse, the required minimum distribution for a year shall not be more than the participant's account value at the close of business on December 31 of the preceding year divided by the number in the joint and last survivor table in Regulations section 1.401(a)(9)-9. The required minimum distribution for a year under this paragraph (a) is determined using the participant's (or, if applicable, the participant and spouse's) attained age (or ages) in the year.

(b) The required minimum distribution under paragraphs 3(a) and 3(b)(i) for a year, beginning with the year following the year of the participant's death (or the year the participant would have reached age 70½, if applicable under paragraph 3(b)(i)) is the account value at the close of business on December 31 of the preceding year divided by the life expectancy (in the single life table in Regulations section 1.401(a)(9)-9) of the individual specified in such paragraphs 3(a) and 3(b)(i).

(c) The required minimum distribution for the year the participant reaches age 70½ can be made as late as April 1 of the following year. The required minimum distribution for any other year must be made by the end of such year.

6. The owner of two or more IRAs (other than Roth IRAs) may satisfy the minimum distribution requirements described above by taking from one IRA the amount required to satisfy the requirement for another in accordance with the regulations under section 408(a)(6).

Article V

1. The participant agrees to provide the trustee with all information necessary to prepare any reports required by sections 408(i) and 408(l)(2) and Regulations sections 1.408-5 and 1.408-6.

2. The custodian agrees to submit to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and participant the reports prescribed by the IRS.

3. The custodian also agrees to provide the participant's employer the summary description described in section 408(l)(2) unless this SIMPLE IRA is a transfer SIMPLE IRA.

Article VI

Notwithstanding any other articles which may be added or incorporated, the provisions of Articles I through III and this sentence will be controlling. Any additional articles inconsistent with sections 408(a) and 408(p) and the related regulations will be invalid.

Article VII

This agreement will be amended as necessary to comply with the provisions of the Code and the related regulations. Other amendments may be made with the consent of the persons whose signatures appear below.

Article VIII

As permitted under the appropriate IRS model form, M2 Trust has added additional provisions to the Agreement.

Without prior written notice to or consent of the Account Holder or Account Holder's beneficiaries, the Custodian may amend this Agreement from time to time in order to comply with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. Notice of such amendment shall be sent to the Account Holder within thirty (30) days after such amendment is to be effective.

The Custodian may also amend this Agreement for any reason other than to comply with the Internal Revenue Code without the consent of the Account Holder or the Account Holder's beneficiaries; provided notice of such amendments shall be sent to the Account Holder thirty (30) days before the date such amendment is to be effective.

Article IX - Self-Directed Account

By execution of the IRA Adoption Agreement the Account Holder hereby authorizes the Custodian to establish a self-directed IRA Account on his or her behalf and agrees to each and every provision contained in this Agreement. Given the self-directed nature of the Account, the Account Holder understands and agrees that it shall be his or her responsibility, and not the Custodian's to: a) select and direct the investment(s) of the Account; b) conduct due diligence on each investment, investment entity/sponsor, selling agent, or broker (selected by the Account Holder), which he or she deems appropriate; c) understand the risks involved with each investment, including, whether or not there may be liability above and beyond the amount of the investment; d) review each investment, as well as the individual(s) and entity(ies) related thereto, with his or her legal, tax, financial or other advisor in order to satisfy any question or concern, and to determine whether such investment or course of action is suitable and legally permissible; e) determine if he or she meets all suitability requirements imposed by each investment; and f) determine if any restrictions, penalties, taxes, fees or expenses are associated with any investment.

Given the self-directed nature of the Account, the Custodian acts in a nondiscretionary (ministerial) capacity and does not act as a fiduciary, within the meaning of Code Section 4975(e)(3).

Article X – Notices, Change of Address, Electronic Signature and Documents

Any notice required or permitted under this Agreement must be in writing and will be effective upon the earlier of actual receipt, five (5) business days following deposit into the United States Mail (postage prepaid), the next business day following deposit with a nationally recognized overnight courier service, or the same day following transmission of an electronic mail message ("E-mail") or legible facsimile copy during regular business hours; in each case, with delivery fees prepaid and addressed to the Account Holder at the last known address (maintained in the Custodian's records) or the Custodian at its place of business or at such other address as either party may notify the other of from time to time in accordance with this Article.

For all purposes of this Agreement, an E-mail transmission is deemed to be in writing and the term "address" includes a party's E-mail address. Also, for purposes of this Agreement, notice includes an E-mail that notifies the Account Holder that they have a message which can be viewed by logging into their account. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any direction for an act or omission provided by the Account Holder shall not be deemed delivered until such direction is actually received by the Custodian at its place of business. Each party is entitled to rely on the information disclosed to the other until it has received written notice of a change in such information and has had a reasonable period of time to react thereto.

The Custodian will not be required to determine the validity of any receipt, affidavit, notice or other paper or agreement required to be delivered to it under this Agreement, but it will be sufficient that such document is delivered to it by one of the parties as herein required and that the same must be in apparently correct form and signed or otherwise executed by the party required to sign or execute the same, and the Custodian will be relieved of any liability or responsibilities for the sufficiency thereof as long as it purports on its face to be such form and executed by such person as required by this Agreement.

In the event the Account Holder changes either his or her physical address or email address, Account Holder must notify Custodian in writing or by email from a verifiable email address on file with the Custodian. Any change of address by the Custodian requires notification to the Account Holder at least thirty (30) days in advance, either by regular mail or by email to the last known address.

If Account Holder has consented to the terms and conditions of Custodian's Consent to Electronic Signatures and Documents Agreement, Account Holder has agreed that (a) all Account statements, disclosures, investment authorizations, notices, and other transactions related to the Account by and between Account Holder and Custodian may be provided electronically as consented to in the Consent to Electronic Signatures and Documents Agreement, at the Custodian's discretion, and (b) use of an electronic signature or E-Mail serve as an "original" signature and will bind the Account Holder to the terms of any document executed by an electronic signature or authorized by an E-Mail.

If Account Holder does not consent to the terms and conditions of Custodian's Consent to Electronic Signatures and Documents Agreement or later withdraws consent, then any notice provided by Custodian to Account Holder for any circumstance shall be sent to Account Holder's last known address (maintained by Custodian) by regular mail, and for purposes of the Consent to Electronic Signatures and Documents Agreement shall be considered delivered as of the date of the mailing. Account Holder is responsible for timely notifying Custodian of any changes of address.

Article XI - Custodian Fees and Expenses

The Custodian has the right to charge, collect, and/or be reimbursed for all costs, fees, taxes, etc. (collectively referred to as "expenses"), related to its administration of the Account, as provided in this Agreement and the Custodian's published IRA Fee Schedule. Such expenses include, but may not be limited to, establishment, annual account administration, cash management, sub-transfer agent, legal, special services, transaction, and Account termination. The Custodian may require a minimum cash balance in the Account from which to deduct expenses.

The Account Holder hereby authorizes the Custodian to deduct any and all expenses from the available cash balance in the Account. Should the Account Holder wish, he or she may elect to pay such expenses either by invoice, ACH, or credit card. The Account Holder has the option of making such a determination when opening the Account by executing the appropriate section of the Adoption Agreement or at a later date by notifying the Custodian in writing on a form provided by or acceptable to the Custodian.

If the Account Holder elects to pay by credit card, the Custodian will generate an invoice on a quarterly basis and charge a Credit Card Processing Fee, as disclosed in its IRA Fee Schedule. The Account Holder will be required to provide the Custodian with a valid credit card number and such other information as the Custodian may request. Should the credit card expire or become invalid the Account Holder must immediately notify the Custodian and provide an alternative method of payment. If the Account Holder fails to notify the Custodian or if he or she provides a new credit card which is or becomes invalid, the Account Holder hereby authorizes the Custodian to automatically deduct expenses directly from the available cash in the Account. If the Account does not have sufficient cash, the Custodian will first deduct from the Account any available cash balance and then generate an invoice (no matter the amount due) for the remaining unpaid balance. If such action is necessary the Account will be subject to both an Invoice and Late fee as provided in the Custodian's IRA Fee Schedule.

If the Account Holder selects to pay by invoice, the Custodian will generate an invoice on a quarterly basis and charge an Invoice Fee, as disclosed in its IRA Fee Schedule. All invoices are due and payable upon receipt. Invoices which are not paid within thirty (30) days from the date of the invoice will also be subject to a Late Fee, as disclosed on the IRA Fee Schedule.

The Custodian reserves the right to liquidate asset of the Account and charge a Special Services Fee, as disclosed in its IRA Fee Schedule, if expenses are not paid within thirty (30) days from the date of any invoice. The Custodian will notify the Account Holder of its intent to liquidate assets by providing written notice. If the Account Holder fails to direct the Custodian as to which asset(s) to liquidate, within thirty (30) days from the date of any invoice, the Account Holder is deemed to have expressly directed the Custodian to liquidate assets of the Account. In such case the Custodian will decide in its complete and sole discretion as to which asset(s) are to be sold and the Account Holder agrees not to hold the Custodian liable for any adverse consequences, such as loss of interest or gains that he or she would otherwise have been entitled to receive had it not been for the liquidation. In the event of any unpaid balance, the Custodian can, at its discretion, require a cash reserve in the Account be established and maintained in an amount sufficient to cover at least one year's estimated expenses, including those related to the termination of the Account. Should liquidation of an asset become necessary the Custodian will first freeze the account by prohibiting any activity and then attempt to liquidate the amount of funds necessary to cover the outstanding balance, plus any cash reserve requirement established by the Custodian. Certain assets held in the Account may not allow for partial liquidation in which case the Custodian may be required to request a total liquidation of the asset(s). The choice of the selling broker, purchaser, and asset(s) to be sold shall be at the Custodian's sole discretion. If sufficient funds are received from the liquidation of an asset(s) the Custodian will allow normal activity to commence within the account. If the Custodian is unable to sell sufficient assets to cover its expenses, the Custodian shall have the right to do any or all of the following without waiving Custodian's right to collect such funds from the Account Holder: 1) continue to cease performing any functions, including, but not limited to, processing investment transactions until such time as all expenses charged against the Account are fully paid; or 2) resign as Custodian from the Account (effectively terminating the Account) and report a distribution of assets to the IRS.

Additional fees may be received or collected by the Custodian from third parties or internally credited by the Custodian related to its Cash Management Account (see Article XIV, Section 6 for more information about the Cash Management Account). These fees cover activities, such as account set-up and maintenance, transaction processing, sub-accounting, recordkeeping and other related services performed by the Custodian. Internally credited fees will not be reflected on the Account Holder's statement or fee invoice as they will not affect the yield paid to the Account under the Cash Management Account. The rate paid to the Account on the cash balances deposited into the Cash Management Account will be determined by the Custodian in its sole discretion. The excess of the interest earned from each bank participating in the Cash Management Account over the amount paid to the Account Holder will be retained by the Custodian as a fee and will be deducted directly from any interest received from the participating banks and the net amount will be paid to the Account monthly.

The Custodian may also receive compensation in the form of 12b-1, sub-transfer agent, and other types of fees from certain mutual funds or their affiliates in return for providing shareholder or recordkeeping services. The amount of these fees is permitted under the fund's prospectus, as well as by law or regulation, and may vary over time. Typically such fees are 0.50% on the average assets invested in the mutual fund. These fees along with the investment management and other operating expenses of the mutual fund are deducted by the fund directly from each fund's earnings.

Any brokerage related fees incurred by the Account cannot be reimbursed by the Account Holder without the risk of having such repayments treated by the IRS as contributions to the Account.

The Custodian reserves the right to modify its IRA Fee Schedule at any time, upon thirty (30) days written notice to the Account Holder.

Article XII - Custodian Powers and Duties

The Custodian retains the power (including the ability to take any action as may be reasonable and necessary to carry out its administrative duties under this Agreement):

- 1) To maintain the Account for the benefit of the Account Holder consisting of all investments purchased at his or her direction.

- 7) To employ agents, attorneys, accountants and other professional persons for advice that in the Custodian's opinion may be necessary and to delegate to any such person/entity the necessary power or duty vested in the Custodian by this Agreement.
- 8) To withhold any funds or property subject to dispute without liability of any kind, including payment of interest, and to decline to make delivery or payment of the Account's property until a court of competent jurisdiction makes final adjudication.

- 9) To charge against and pay from the Account all applicable expenses including the Custodian's fees as disclosed on its IRA Fee Schedule, taxes, interest, or penalties of any nature levied, assessed, or imposed upon the Account or Custodian, as well as reasonable compensation to agents, attorneys, accountants and other professional persons which may be incurred by the Custodian with respect to the Account.
- 10) To reimburse from the Account any other expenses the Custodian may assume or incur on behalf of the Account.
- 11) To hold any security or other property in the Account in the name of the Custodian, its' nominee, or in any other form as it may deem best, including a central clearing corporation or depository approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission provided that its records show that all such investments are part of Account.
- 12) To deposit all cash into the Custodian's Cash Management Account, as authorized by the Account Holder under Article XIV, Section 6, until such time as it receives alternative investment instructions from the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent.
- 13) To invest and reinvest Account funds at the direction of the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent, including, annuities, bonds, certificates of deposit, government securities, limited partnerships, limited Liability companies, mutual funds, money market funds, mortgages, precious metals, promissory notes, real estate, REITS, stocks, tax liens, trust deeds, and such other assets as may be administratively acceptable to the Custodian or allowable under applicable federal laws and regulations.
- 14) To act pursuant to a written automatic settlement authorization (given by the Account Holder) allowing the Custodian to honor all trade confirmations received from an Authorized Agent selected by the Account Holder.
- 15) To manage, sell, contract to sell, grant options to purchase, convey, petition, divide, subdivide, exchange, transfer, abandon, improve, repair, insure, lease and otherwise deal with all property, real or personal, in such manner for such consideration and on such terms and conditions as are in accordance with this Agreement and the written directives it receives from the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent.
- 16) To exercise voting and other rights with respect to any investment held within the Account, subject to and in accordance with instructions from the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent.
- 17) To reject any proposed investment which the Custodian determines may create an administrative burden or is outside the scope of its experience or capabilities.
- 18) To do and perform all acts or things reasonably necessary or desirable to carry out the power and authority granted to the Custodian.

Article XIII - Account Holder Acknowledgments

- 1) In addition to the other provisions contained in this Agreement, the Account Holder hereby acknowledges and agrees to the following:
 - a) The Account is self-directed and as such the Account Holder is solely responsible for the selection, delivery, management, retention, success, or failure of each investment held within the Account.
 - b) The Custodian neither recommends, sponsors, endorses, evaluates or performs any type of due diligence, nor does it guarantee any investment selected by the Account Holder regardless of any claim made by an investment sponsor, broker, sales or marketing person, advisor, person/entity, or as may be claimed on the internet or in any form of electronic or print media.
 - c) The Custodian does not act as an investment advisor or counselor and will not offer any advice, opinion or judgment on any matter pertaining to the nature, value, potential value or suitability of any investment and is merely authorized to disburse funds/assets or acquire and hold funds/assets authorized by the Account Holder in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement.
 - d) The Custodian is not responsible for the actions or failures to act by the Account Holder, his or her Authorized Agent, or any other individual or entity selected by the Account Holder.
 - e) Certain investments may involve a high-degree of risk and may permit only limited redemptions, if any, making liquidation difficult.
 - f) Pursuant to this Agreement and applicable Regulations, the Account Holder, or any Authorized Agent selected by the Account Holder that exercises discretionary authority, control, or provides advice for a fee or other compensation, will be a fiduciary within the meaning of Code Section 4975(e)(3). The Custodian acts in a nondiscretionary (ministerial) capacity and does not act as a fiduciary. The Account Holder agrees that the Custodian owes no fiduciary duty of any kind to the Account Holder.
 - g) Where the Account Holder and the Custodian have agreed, the Account Holder may give investment instructions for execution directly to an

- Authorized Agent; however, in such case, any issues which may arise shall be handled directly by the Account Holder.
- h) The Account Holder may authorize the Custodian, either upon the IRA Adoption Agreement, if applicable, or such other form as the Custodian shall prescribe, to provide duplicate Account statements or access to other Account information (both verbally and in writing) to a spouse, child, financial advisor or other person designated by the Account Holder. In such case the authorization shall remain in effect until revoked by the Account Holder in writing and acknowledged by the Custodian. The Account Holder will hold the Custodian harmless for any loss or breach of trust of any kind that may result from its providing information or any action it takes in good faith in accordance with such authorization.
 - i) The Custodian is entitled to act upon any authorization, direction, instrument, certificate or form it believes is genuine and signed which is presented by the proper person or persons and need not investigate or inquire as to any statement contained in any such document, but may accept it as true and accurate.
 - j) Any information or directions given will be accurate and proper and the Custodian is entitled to rely upon such information or directions.
 - k) Should the Custodian fail to receive directions from the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent regarding any transaction, or if such direction is ambiguous or if the Custodian, in good faith, believes that any requested transaction is in dispute, the Custodian reserves the right to take no further action until clarification, acceptable to it, is received from the Account Holder, his or her Authorized Agent, or the appropriate government or judicial authority.
 - l) Regardless of the return or performance of each investment, the Account Holder is responsible for all fees and expenses charged for the administration of the Account in accordance with the published IRA Fee Schedule of the Custodian.
 - m) The Account Holder will not invest any funds into or receive or withdraw funds from any investment held in the Account other than through the Custodian.
 - n) The registration of each investment held in the Account shall be M2 Trust, as Custodian of the Account and not the Account Holder individually.
 - o) The Account Holder meets the requirements set forth in Section 408 of the Internal Revenue Code to establish an individual retirement account ("IRA").
 - p) The Account Holder is responsible for determining whether a distribution from another IRA or Qualified Retirement Plan may be rolled over into this Account and that any such rollover contribution will be excludable from income for federal or state income tax purposes.
 - q) The Custodian shall have no duty to determine whether Account contributions or distributions comply with the Code, Regulations, or this Agreement.
 - r) If the Account is an inherited IRA, i.e., the Account Holder receives the assets as the beneficiary of a deceased owner's IRA, then Account Holder may not make regular contributions to the Account. An inherited IRA may receive multiple transfers from other inherited IRA accounts and/or multiple rollover contributions from inherited qualified retirement plans. Account Holder understands that the assets must be inherited from the same owner.
 - s) All requests for withdrawals shall be in writing on a form provided by or acceptable to the Custodian.
 - t) The Account Holder shall be responsible for any penalties, taxes, judgments or expenses he or she may incur in connection with the Account.
 - u) The Custodian may employ agents and/or organizations for the purpose of performing administrative or other custodial-related services related to the Account for which it otherwise has responsibility under this Agreement. In such case the limitations imposed by this Agreement upon the Custodian shall also apply to each agent or organization so employed.
 - v) The Custodian may, but shall not be required unless required by applicable law, inform the Account Holder by forwarding materials or otherwise communicating with the Account Holder as to any issue or other matter that may arise regarding an investment in the Account, or any issue relating to any other account(s) administered by the Custodian, including, but not limited to, annual reports, amended prospectuses, financial statements, proxies, notices, form K-1, or other documents. The Account Holder, in the event he or she would like to receive such material, shall either make arrangements to obtain the material separately (directly from the source) or request each such document from the Custodian, provided that the Custodian is under no obligation to provide such information unless it is in its possession.
 - w) The Account Holder is ultimately responsible for providing the Custodian with the Fair Market Value of any Alternative Investment held in the Account and that failure to do so may result in either the distribution of the asset or resignation of the Custodian, as provided in Article XV of this Agreement.
 - x) The Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent will vote on any matters relating to an investment held within the Account or shall direct the Custodian to vote on his or her behalf.
 - y) The terms of this Agreement shall be binding upon the Custodian, Account Holder, Account beneficiary, or any agent selected by any such party.
- 2) Account Holder Delegation of Investment Responsibility. The Custodian may, but is not required to, permit the Account Holder to delegate investment responsibility for the Account to another party. On a form acceptable to the Custodian, the Account Holder may designate an individual or entity as their Authorized Agent for the purpose of communicating investment instructions, including, but not limited to disbursement of funds/assets, to the Custodian on behalf of the Account Holder. In such case the Account Holder is responsible for determining whether the Authorized Agent is qualified to act in that capacity. The Custodian shall assume that the Authorized Agent appointed by the Account Holder is at all times qualified to act. The Authorized Agent will be responsible for the execution of securities orders placed by the Account Holder on behalf of the Account or otherwise direct the investments of the Account. The Authorized Agent may require the Account Holder to sign an agreement which sets forth, among other things, the Custodian's responsibilities and the responsibility of the Account Holder regarding securities or other investment transactions for the Account. Any account maintained or investment purchased by an Authorized Agent on behalf of the Account must be registered as follows: M2 Trust, Custodian fbo (Account Holder's name and IRA Account Number). Being appointed as an Authorized Agent shall also entitle the individual or entity to receive from or make inquiry of the Custodian any information pertinent to the Account, including, but not limited to, copies of Account statements, transaction history, and available cash balances. The Authorized Agent may be a registered representative of a broker/dealer organization, a registered investment advisor or advisory firm, or other person/entity as may be acceptable to the Account Holder. Such person shall be the Account Holder's Authorized Agent, and not the Custodian's. The Custodian shall construe any and all investment directions given by such Authorized Agent, whether written or oral, as having been authorized by the Account Holder. The Account Holder may remove the Authorized Agent only by written notice to the Custodian. Such removal shall be effective upon confirmation of receipt by the Custodian. The Authorized Agent's removal shall not have the effect of canceling any notice, instruction, direction or approval received by the Custodian before it confirms the notice of removal to the Account Holder. The Custodian shall follow either the proper written direction or verbal instructions of any Authorized Agent who is properly appointed and the Custodian shall be under no duty to review or question, nor shall it be responsible for any of the Authorized Agent's directions, actions or failures to act. The Authorized Agent's instructions to the Custodian shall be deemed to be instructions by the Account Holder for all purposes related to investment of Account assets. Any references to the Account Holder in this Agreement, or ancillary form used by the Custodian to administer the Account, shall automatically include an Authorized Agent if such person/entity has been duly authorized by the Account Holder. In such case all provisions of this Agreement shall equally apply to the Account Holder and Authorized Agent.
- 3) Forms of Communication. On a form or in a format acceptable to the Custodian, the Account Holder may authorize the Custodian to accept written, verbal, fax, e-mail and other means of communication for investment directions from the Account Holder or an Authorized Agent.

Article XIV – Account Holder Investment Responsibility

- 1) Subject to Article XIII, Section 2, the Account Holder has authority and discretion (fully and completely) to select and to direct the investment of all assets in the Account. For purposes of this Account and applicable Regulations, the Account Holder, and not the Custodian, is a fiduciary within the meaning of Code Section 4975(e)(3). The Custodian acts in a nondiscretionary (ministerial) capacity and does not act as a fiduciary with respect to the appointment of any agent or representative of the Account Holder or the purchase, sale, or safekeeping of any asset of the Account. The Account Holder accepts full responsibility for the success or failure of any investment held by the Account. The Custodian shall not have any responsibility or liability for any loss of income, gain, capital or for any unusual expense(s) which the Account or Custodian may incur relating to any investment or action which the Account Holder directs the Custodian to undertake.

In the event of the Account Holder's death, his or her beneficiary(is) shall have the right to direct the investment of the Account, subject to the provisions of this Agreement. All transactions shall be subject to all applicable federal and state laws, including rules, regulations, customs and usages of any exchange, market or clearing house where the transaction is executed, and to the Custodian's policies and practices.

- 2) Publicly-Traded Securities. If publicly-traded securities are to be included in the Account, orders shall be executed through a broker/dealer registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 designated by the Account Holder, upon such form as the Custodian may prescribe. Any brokerage or registered investment advisory account maintained in connection with the IRA Account must be registered as follows: M2 Trust, Custodian fbo (Account Holder's name and IRA Account Number). The Custodian shall be authorized to honor transactions within such account without obligation to verify each and every transaction has been authorized by the Account Holder. Any cash received by the brokerage or advisory account, whether as income or proceeds from transactions, may be held in such account pending directions from the Account Holder and the Custodian shall have no obligation to direct the brokerage or advisory account to remit such cash to the Account until directed to do so by the Account Holder, but may receive remittances without direction if the same are made to the Custodian by the brokerage or advisory account.

The Custodian shall assume that any individual securities broker, investment advisor, or securities/advisory firm selected by the Account Holder is at all times qualified to act in that capacity. Such person/entity will be responsible for the execution of securities orders placed by the Account Holder on behalf of his or her IRA Account. As noted in Article XIII, Section 2, of this Agreement, the Authorized Agent may require the Account Holder to sign an agreement which sets forth, among other things, the responsibilities of each party regarding transactions for the Account. The Account Holder may appoint a replacement Authorized Agent at any time provided that he or she notifies the Custodian in writing and completes any form as the Custodian may prescribe.

Investment directions may be given by the Account Holder directly to his or her Authorized Agent (in such manner as the Authorized Agent may require) and such Authorized Agent shall be responsible for the execution of such orders. If securities are purchased within such account requiring funds to be remitted by the Custodian (in order to make settlement), the Account Holder agrees to telephonically notify the Custodian or instruct his or her Authorized Agent to telephonically notify the Custodian about the trade date of the pending securities transaction and to request delivery of sufficient cash from the IRA Account as may be necessary to settle the trade. In the event that funds are required, it is the Account Holder's responsibility to ensure sufficient cash is available within the IRA Account.

The Account Holder agrees to hold the Custodian harmless for any losses resulting from: 1) a failed trade due to insufficient cash being maintained in the trading account or the IRA Account; or 2) the Account Holder's failure, or that of his or her securities broker, investment advisor, or securities/advisory firm, to notify the Custodian of the pending trade and requesting settlement in the above prescribed manner.

- 3) Alternative Investment. The Account Holder may, at his or her discretion, direct the Custodian to purchase non-publicly traded investments (herein after referred to as an "Alternative Investment") which include, but shall not be limited to, private placement securities offered in reliance upon exemptions provided by Sections 3(B) and 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 and Regulation D promulgated thereunder, or other investments which are individually negotiated by the Account Holder. It is the Account Holder's responsibility to determine that any specific investment or investment course of action is suitable, legally permissible and he or she agrees to assume all risk of possible loss of principal and earnings. In addition, it is the Account Holder's responsibility to determine whether or not his or her selected investment is required to be registered as a security with any applicable federal and/or state regulatory authority. If the Account Holder should direct the Custodian to purchase an Alternative Investment, the following special certifications and provisions shall apply:
- a) The Account Holder agrees to be responsible for ensuring that any investment related document is properly prepared and is legally enforceable.
 - b) The Account Holder agrees to submit or cause to be submitted all documentation related to the proposed investment for an administrative review by the Custodian, if so requested. The Custodian reserves the right to charge a reasonable fee for such administrative review.

- c) If the investment contains a provision for future contractual payments or assessments, the Account Holder acknowledges that such payments shall be borne solely by his or her IRA Account, that authorization to make such payments shall come from the Account Holder and that making such payments may reduce or exhaust the value of the Account Holder's Account. The Account Holder further agrees to maintain sufficient liquid funds in his or her Account to cover any such payments or assessments, and agrees that the Custodian is not responsible for monitoring the balance of the Account.
- d) The Custodian reserves the right, upon notice to the Account Holder, not to process certain Alternative Investment transactions which may contain, in its sole opinion, administrative requirements or duties beyond the Custodian's capabilities or expertise to provide. Such action should not be construed as investment advice or an opinion by the Custodian as to an investment's prudence or viability. As an alternative the Custodian may, but is not required to, allow the Account Holder to seek out suitable agents or counsel as may be necessary to address any issue or perform such duties or functions on behalf of the Custodian. In such case the Account Holder shall provide the Custodian with a written agreement (suitable to the Custodian) addressing any issue(s) and/or outlining the duties and responsibilities of such agent or counsel that may be necessary before the Custodian agrees to process the Alternative Investment transaction.
- e) If the Account Holder directs the Custodian to enter into an individually-negotiated debt instrument, including a promissory note, deed of trust, real estate contract, mortgage note or debenture, the Custodian, on a form acceptable to it, may require the Account Holder to retain the services of a third-party servicing agent. Said servicing agent shall be the Account Holder's agent, not the Custodian's, and shall be responsible for administering the terms of the debt instrument on behalf of the Account Holder's Account. Should the servicing agent ever become unwilling or unable to perform the duties outlined in the Servicing Agent Agreement, the Account Holder understands and agrees that he or she must appoint a successor servicing agent in accordance with the provision of this section. Under no circumstances will the Custodian act as a servicing agent, i.e., it will not monitor the Account Holder's Account to ensure receipt of note payments, send notification in the event of default, prepare or compute payoff balances, prepare or file Form 1098, etc.
- f) If the Account Holder directs the Custodian to purchase income producing real estate, the Custodian, on a form acceptable to it, may require the Account Holder to retain the services of a property manager. Said property manager shall be the Account Holder's agent, not the Custodian's, and shall be responsible for administering the terms of any property management agreement on behalf of the Account Holder's Account. Should the property manager ever become unwilling or unable to perform the duties outlined in the property management agreement, the Account Holder understands and agrees that he or she must appoint a successor property manager in accordance with the provision of this section. Under no circumstances will the Custodian act as a property manager, i.e., it will not monitor the Account Holder's Account to ensure receipt of payments, send notification in the event of default, etc.
- g) If the Account Holder directs the Custodian to purchase precious metals, the Account Holder hereby represents and warrants to the Custodian that he or she has: 1) conducted a due diligence review of the precious metal dealer that he or she felt was appropriate; 2) evaluated the risks involved with the precious metal purchase and is fully prepared financially to undertake such risks; and 3) determined that the precious metal purchase is not prohibited as defined in the Code and is permitted to be held in an IRA pursuant to IRC 408(m)(3)A)(i)-(iv) and 408(m)(3)(B). The Account Holder also acknowledges that: 1) the precious metal dealer is not an employee, agent or representative of the Custodian; 2) the Custodian has not provided any recommendation or advice of any kind related to the precious metal transaction and/or precious metal dealer; 3) the Custodian does not verify purity, weight, metal content or authenticity of any coins or bullion that is delivered, held, or shipped; 4) he or she has reviewed and hereby agrees to the Custodian's IRA Fee Schedule (as well as any fees charged by the precious metal dealer), including all fees associated with the purchase, sale, storage/safekeeping, packing, handling, insurance and shipping of precious metals; 5) he or she is solely responsible for the selection and performance, including, but not limited to, the current or future value of the precious metals purchased, exchanged or sold; and 6) payment to the precious metal dealer will be made by the Custodian from the Account Holder's Account upon receipt of the Custodian's Precious Metal Authorization along with a copy of the precious metal dealer's invoice, both of which shall be signed by the Account Holder. Furthermore, the Account Holder hereby agrees to indemnify and hold the Custodian harmless from any and all claims, damages, expenses and/or liabilities related to: 1) the Account Holder's authorization to purchase or sale any precious metal; 2) the delivery of any precious metal, either to the Custodian and/or, if applicable, a qualified third party depository selected by the Custodian; 3) items received that do not match those described in the Account Holder's Precious Metal Authorization or the precious metal dealer's invoice; and 4) any promises, conduct, actions, delays, failures, breaches or omissions of the precious metal dealer, including failure of delivery.

- h) The Custodian is responsible for safekeeping only those documents, assets or funds which are delivered into its possession. If original documents are to be held by an agent, the Account Holder must ensure that the agent agrees to safeguard the original documents and forward copies of the signed and, if applicable, recorded documents to the Custodian as evidence of ownership. The Account Holder's agent must also agree to make original documentation available to the Custodian for inspection, upon request. In the event the Custodian asks for documentation evidencing the investment and the Account Holder's agent is unwilling or unable to provide such information or documentation, the Custodian may, in its sole discretion, re-register the asset into the Account Holder's individual name by executing an assignment form and sending such form to the Account Holder. In such case the Custodian will be required by Regulation to report the distribution to the IRS using the last known value for such asset which may subject the Account Holder to IRS imposed taxes and penalties.
 - i) The Account Holder agrees to be responsible for any and all collection actions, including contracting with a collection agency or instituting legal action, and bring any other suits or actions which may become necessary to protect the rights of the Account as a result of the operation or administration of any investment within the Account.
 - j) For purposes of investment, once the Account Holder approves funds to be disbursed from the Account, the Account Holder agrees to be responsible for the following:
 - i. verifying that the investment entity or individual, upon receipt of funds from the Custodian, places his or her funds into the proper investment;
 - ii. obtaining the necessary documentation from the investment entity or individual to verify that the funds were invested or assets delivered as authorized by the Account Holder, including, but not limited to, the number of shares or units, proper recordation, etc.; and
 - iii. sending original documentation evidencing the investment to the Custodian or, if applicable, in the case of a promissory note or real estate investment, to a third-party servicing agent/property manager, with copies of the documentation being provided to the Custodian. The Custodian will not monitor the account to ensure receipt of such documentation and will rely solely on the Account Holder to provide such evidence of ownership.
- 4) Insurance, Utilities, Taxes and Other Expenses. It is the Account Holder's responsibility to monitor his or her Account with respect to any investment related expenses and to: 1) notify the Custodian in writing, at least fifteen (15) business days prior to when any payment becomes due and payable; 2) ensure sufficient funds are available in the Account; 3) authorize the Custodian to disburse payment; and 4) monitor the Account to ensure payment has been timely made and received. Examples of such expenses include, but are not limited to, real estate taxes, HOA fees, property management fees, utility payments, and insurance, e.g., casualty or liability.
- 5) Life Insurance and Collectible. The Account Holder may not direct the Custodian to purchase a life insurance contract or a "collectible" as defined in Code Section 408(m).
- 6) Cash Management Account. The Account Holder hereby directs the Custodian, pending further instructions, to sweep all un-invested cash from any source, including, but not limited to, contributions, transfers, and income from investments held within the Account, into the Cash Management Account provided by the Custodian; to place such cash in an FDIC insured demand deposit account; to determine the banking institution(s) that will participate in the Cash Management Account Program as a depository institution; and determine the amount of funds that will be held by each participating bank. The Account Holder understands it can find a list of participating banks on the Custodian's website or by making a written request to the Custodian. Account Holder account statements will list each banking institution participating in the Cash

Management Account Program and the amount of funds held by each for the Account Holder. The Account Holder understands that rate paid to the Account Holder on such deposits is in the sole discretion of the Custodian and agrees that the Custodian may retain as a fee an amount equal to the gross interest earned on the amounts deposited with the participating banks less the amount paid to the Account Holder. Account Holder agrees that interest earned on such cash balances, net of any fee(s) described in Article XI, shall be credited to the Account as of the end of each month, except for the month in which the Account is closed. When the Account is closed, interest will not be credited for that month and such interest, if any, will be taken as part of the final closing fee charged by the Custodian.

The Account Holder understands that funds deposited into the Cash Management Account are insured by the FDIC, an independent agency of the U.S. government, up to a maximum amount of $250,000.

For Automatic Rollover IRAs administered by the Custodian, funds received from an employer, on behalf of an employee who no longer works at the company, have their balances automatically placed into the Cash Management Account. The Trustee of the previous employer's retirement plan authorized the placement of the funds into our Cash Management Account. Funds will remain in the account, subject to our fees as disclosed in our published IRA Fee Schedule, pending further direction from the ex-employee. Once the ex-employee makes contact with us and provides the requested information and documentation, they may elect to: 1) maintain the account at M2 Trust; 2) take distribution of the available cash balance; 3) transfer the balance to another IRA Custodian; or 4) request a direct rollover into a new employer's retirement plan (if the plan allows for such rollovers), subject to our fees as disclosed in our published IRA Fee Schedule.

- 7) Prohibited Transactions. Certain transactions within an IRA are not allowed and are referred to as a "prohibited transaction," pursuant to Section 4975 of the Code. The determination depends on the facts and circumstances surrounding a given transaction. Generally, a prohibited transaction involves an improper use of the IRA Account by the Account Holder, his or her beneficiary, or any disqualified person. A disqualified person includes the Account Holder, as owner of the Account, as well as his or her: a) designated beneficiary; b) spouse; c) parents, grandparents, or great grandparents; d) children, grandchildren, great grandchildren; e) spouse's parents, grandparents, etc.; f) offspring's spouses – the Account Holder's son-in-law or daughter-in-law; g) any Authorized Agent; h) IRA Custodian; or i) any company or entity in which any of the above own more than a 50% interest/share. Examples of a prohibited transaction include: a) the Account Holder or any disqualified person borrowing money from the Account; b) pledging the assets in the Account as collateral for a personal loan; c) personal use of any asset in the Account, such as real estate; or d) personal receipt of a commission or other benefit based on or related to a transaction involving an asset in the Account.

It is the Account Holder's responsibility, and not the Custodian's, to determine if any investment or transaction within the Account is prohibited. By submitting an investment authorization to the Custodian the Account Holder represents and warrants that he or she has consulted with his or her own tax or legal professional to ensure the investment will not constitute a prohibited transaction and that the investment complies with all applicable federal and state laws.

Engaging in a prohibited transaction within an IRA will generally result in the disqualification of the Account as of the first day of the year in which the transaction occurred, subjecting the Account Holder to taxes and penalties. The Custodian reserves the right to request verification from the Account Holder that any proposed transaction or investment within the Account does not create a prohibited transaction. In the event no verification is received by the Custodian, within a reasonable period of time, the Custodian reserves the right to take whatever action it deems to be appropriate, including, but not limited to, resigning as Custodian from the Account. Not requesting such a certification does not represent that the Custodian has concluded that no prohibited transaction exists or that it has reviewed the transaction in question.

- 8) Listed or Reportable Transactions. Certain transactions within an IRA may be identified as being of a type that the IRS has determined as having a potential for tax avoidance or evasion (Abusive Tax Shelters and Transactions). These transactions are identified by notice, regulations, or other form of published guidance. For existing guidance see Notice 2009-59, 2009-31 I.R.B. 170, available at www.irs.gov. The determination depends on the facts and circumstances surrounding a given transaction. It is the Account Holder's responsibility and not the Custodian's to determine if any listed or reportable transaction occurs within the Account. By submitting an investment authorization to the Custodian the Account Holder represents and warrants that he or she has consulted with his or her tax or legal professional to ensure any proposed transaction or investment will not constitute a listed or reportable transaction. In addition, the Account Holder agrees to monitor the Account, on an ongoing basis, to identify any such transaction. In the event that a transaction is determined to be a listed or reportable transaction, the Account Holder will be considered the entity manager who authorized and caused the Account to be a party to the transaction. In such case, the Account Holder will be responsible for: 1) reporting such transactions to the IRS using Forms 8886-T and 8886; 2) paying excise taxes, if applicable, using IRS Form 5330; and 3) reporting such transaction to the Custodian along with instructions regarding any necessary corrective action to be taken by the Account.

- 9) Unrelated Business Income Tax. Certain investments selected by the Account Holder may generate taxable income within the Account, referred to as Unrelated Business Income Tax (UBIT), as defined in sections 511 through 514 of Code. This may occur whenever the Account earns income from an investment which utilizes debt-financing or which is derived from a business regarded as not related to the exempt purpose of the IRA. An example of investments that might generate UBIT include, but are not limited to, limited partnerships that borrow money related to investment purposes, debt-financed real estate investments, and brokerage accounts with margin loans being utilized for investment purposes. Such income may be taxable to the extent that UBIT for a given taxable year exceeds the threshold amount set by the IRS, currently $1000. In such instances the IRS requires that a Form 990-T be filed for the Account Holder's Account along with the appropriate amount of tax. These taxes are expense of the IRA and must be paid by the Account Holder utilizing assets in the Account. The Account Holder, by signing the applicable Adoption Agreement related to this Agreement, affirms that he or she understand that the Custodian does not: 1) monitor whether the Account generates UBIT; 2) make any determination of UBIT; 3) calculate UBIT for the Account; or 4) prepare Form 990-T. If the Account has any investment which generates UBIT, the Account Holder must monitor for UBIT and, if applicable, prepare, or have prepared, the proper 990-T tax form. In such case the Account Holder will be required to have a separate employer identification number for the Account ("EIN") which will be used for filing the 990-T form. The Custodian does not obtain such an EIN for the Account and has no obligation to obtain such EIN for the Account. If the Account Holder does not have a separate EIN for the Account (related to UBIT), he or she will need to file an Application with the IRS in order to obtain such a tax identification number. The Account Holder will need to forward the 990-T form to the Custodian for filing, along with authorization to pay any tax due from the Account. If the Account Holder submits this information to the Custodian for filing, the Account Holder agrees the Custodian is under no obligation or duty to verify the accuracy of this information. In the event that the Account Holder fails to file form 990-T, the Account Holder agrees to indemnify the Custodian for any liability or expense incurred due to failure to file.

Article XV - Valuation of Account Asset

The Custodian is responsible for providing the Account Holder with a fair market value ("FMV") of the assets in the Account no less frequently than annually. The Custodian will make a good faith effort to ascertain FMV of publically traded securities using various outside sources. For this purpose, with respect to securities with publicly-available quoted prices, the Custodian will use those quoted prices for its Account Holder statements. Where a brokerage account is held as an asset of the Account the Custodian's reported FMV may reflect only the total value of the brokerage account, as reported on the brokerage firm's account statement provided to the Custodian. Account Holder statements provided by the Custodian will only reflect those securities that are actually priced by the brokerage firm. The Account Holder should refer to his or her brokerage statement for an individual listing and valuation of each security held within such account.

The Custodian shall have no duty or responsibility to value Alternative Investments. These assets will be valued at cost (original purchase price) unless the Account Holder, investment entity, or qualified third party provides the Custodian with documentation, in a form and from a source acceptable to the Custodian, which provides an alternative value. In the absence of direction from the Secretary of the Treasurer or his authorized representative to the contrary, the valuation of an Alternative Investment, including, but not limited to, hedge funds, limited partnerships, limited liability companies, mortgages, privately held stock, precious metals, promissory notes, real estate, trust deeds, and other entities or assets determined by the Custodian, must be provided to the Custodian either by the: 1) investment entity; 2) Account Holder; or 3) qualified third party (acceptable to the Custodian) chosen by the Account Holder. All expense related to the valuation of an Alternative Investment must be paid from the Account Holder's IRA Account. Alternative Investments should be valued as of December 31st and provided to the Custodian in a timely manner, but in no event later than January 15th of each year or such other date as determined by the Custodian. Due to their nature, the valuation of an Alternative Investment may be difficult to obtain or impossible to verify. The Account Holder accepts full responsibility for providing the required FMV information in a timely manner, as well as the accuracy of such information. The Custodian makes no representations or warranties with respect to any valuation received and the Account Holder directs the Custodian to accept the provided FMV. Failure of the investment entity, Account Holder, or third party to provide the valuation information in a timely manner shall be the responsibility of the respective party and the Custodian shall have no duty or obligation to take any steps to secure the Alternative Investment FMV information for the Account.

The Custodian may require, before processing an Account Holder's request to purchase an Alternative Investment or at such other time as it deems appropriate, the investment entity or third party to sign documents confirming their obligation to provide annual valuations to the Custodian no later than January 15th or such other date as determined by the Custodian. In such case the Account Holder is responsible for ensuring such documentation is provided to the Custodian. Failure or delay of the receipt of such documentation by the Custodian may result in processing delays being experienced by the Account Holder's Account. The Custodian will not be liable to the Account Holder for any loss of income or potential gains from a delayed investment under such circumstances.

Certain Alternative Investments, such as promissory notes and privately offered debt, may have valuations reflected at face value shown on the original note or debt instrument, or if the asset is such that it is subject to an amortization schedule, valuation may be shown at amortized value.

The Custodian shall have no duty or responsibility to solicit and/or provide notice to the Account Holder regarding any valuation, including the year-end FMV. In the event the Custodian fails to receive such information on or before January 15th or such other date as determined by the Custodian, the Custodian is entitled to use the last known value which might be original purchase price. In the event that no valuation information is received for a period exceeding 24 months, the Custodian may, but shall not be required to, either distribute to the Account Holder the asset for which no valuation has been received or resign as Custodian from the Account and distribute the Account to the Account Holder. In the event of a distribution the Custodian will issue IRS Form 1099-R reflecting the last known value of the asset(s) so distributed. The Custodian shall have no responsibility or liability for any tax, financial or other consequences relating to or arising from such distribution to the Account Holder. Prior to any such distribution, the Custodian will provide thirty (30) days written notice to the Account Holder of its' intent to distribute and/or resign from the Account. During that time period the Account Holder will have the opportunity to make necessary arrangements to have updated valuation information (acceptable to the Custodian) provided to the Custodian so that it can fulfill its duties under IRS regulations. The Custodian may assess a special services fee to the Account, as disclosed in its' IRA Fee Schedule, for the additional work necessary to provide notice to the Account Holder and, if applicable, updating the Account for any valuation information received.

The Custodian may reflect a valuation of zero if an asset is reported by the investment sponsor, or other reliable source, as having no market value or is in bankruptcy and a final disposition of the asset has been determined by legal proceeding. The Custodian reserves the right to resolve any differences in FMV in any manner it deems appropriate.

The Account Holder shall indemnify and hold the Custodian harmless for any loss, damage, tax, penalty or other consequences to the Account Holder or the Account arising from or relating to the valuation of any Alternative Investment including the Custodian's accepting, reporting or acting upon any FMV supplied by an investment entity, the Account Holder, or third party. Should the Custodian be assessed any tax or penalty for reporting improper valuations to the IRS, the Account Holder agrees to fully reimburse the Custodian for such tax or penalty and any associated expense incurred by the Custodian.

Valuations are approximations and are provided as a general guide; they do not necessarily reflect actual market value. Valuation information should not be used by the Account Holder as the basis for making, retaining, disposing of, or distributing an investment. Such a decision should only be made by the Account Holder after contacting the investment entity and/or the Account Holder's legal, tax, financial or other advisors.

Article XVI - Beneficiary Designation

If the Account Holder dies before he or she receives all of the assets in the Account, payments from the Account will be made to his or her designated beneficiary. The Account Holder may designate, either upon the IRA Adoption Agreement or such other form as the Custodian shall prescribe, one or more beneficiary(ies) for the Account.

Such designation will only be effective when it is received and accepted by the Custodian during the Account Holder's lifetime. The Account Holder should periodically review his or her beneficiary designation to ensure it is up-to-date, especially if there has been a change in family or marital status. The Account Holder may also revoke his or her prior designation in whole or in part by submitting a new beneficiary designation to the Custodian. The consent of a beneficiary shall not be required for the Account Holder to revoke a beneficiary designation; however, the Custodian may require a spouse to consent to the naming of any beneficiary other than the spouse. Unless otherwise specified, each beneficiary designation the Account Holder files with the Custodian will cancel all previous ones. A spouse beneficiary shall have all rights as granted under the Code or applicable Regulations to treat the Account Holder's Account as his or her own IRA.

If the Account Holder has more than one beneficiary, the named beneficiaries will share equally in the Account unless the Account Holder designates the ownership interest of each listed beneficiary. The Account Holder should ensure that any such allocation of ownership interest totals one hundred (100) percent. In the event that ownership interest does not equal 100%, the Custodian is hereby authorized by the Account Holder to divide the remaining unallocated percentage equally among the listed Account beneficiaries. Should the Account Holder name multiple beneficiaries and provide an allocation equaling 100% among only a portion of the named beneficiaries, the Account Holder hereby authorizes the Custodian to pay the specified percentage only to the beneficiary(ies) whose ownership interest has been specified by the Account Holder. Designated beneficiaries without an allocation of ownership interest will not be entitled to receive any assets of the Account, thereby forfeiting any rights or claims against the Account and/or Custodian.

If the Account Holder has designated both primary and contingent beneficiaries and no primary beneficiary survives the Account Holder, the contingent beneficiary(ies) shall acquire their designated interest in the Account in the same manner as described above.

If any beneficiary(ies) designated to receive payments hereunder is a minor or person of unsound mind, whether so formally adjudicated or not, the Custodian, in its discretion, may make such payment to such person as may be acting as parent, guardian, committee, conservator, Custodian, or legal representative of such minor or incompetent and the receipt of payment by any such person as selected by the Custodian shall be a full and complete discharge to the Custodian for any sums so paid.

At the time of the Account Holder's death, the Custodian may allow the named Account beneficiary(ies) who is entitled to receive distribution from the Account to name a successor beneficiary(ies), to the extent permitted by the Code, applicable Regulation, or by state law. In such case the Account beneficiary(ies) shall appoint a successor beneficiary(ies) in the same manner as described above. In no event shall the successor have the ability to extend the distribution period beyond that required for the initial Account beneficiary.

To the extent that any beneficiary takes possession of the Account, or any part thereof, upon the Account Holder's death he or she hereby agrees to be subject to all of the terms and provisions of this Agreement and all references to the Account Holder herein shall be deemed to include the beneficiary.

If the Account Holder fails to name a beneficiary in accordance with this section or if all of the beneficiaries named by the Account Holder predecease him or her, then the remaining balance of the Account shall be payable to the spouse of the Account Holder, or if there is no spouse living, then to children, or if there are no children, then to the estate of the Account Holder.

Upon the death of the Account Holder, the Custodian requires a certified copy of the death certificate be provided to it before it will release any assets, either to the spouse, named beneficiary(ies), or representative of the estate. The Custodian has no duty to investigate the legal status of any individual claiming to be the representative of the estate or individual claiming to be a named beneficiary, other than requesting personal identification information or such other information the Custodian deems appropriate to verify that the person is as represented. The Custodian shall not be liable for any action it takes in reliance upon information provided by any source which the Custodian believes to be reliable. Once distribution(s) of the Account to the Account Holder's beneficiary(ies) or representative of the estate commences, all rights and obligations of the Account Holder under this Agreement shall inure to, and be exercised by, such person(s). At such time as the assets of the Account have been distributed the Custodian shall be fully and forever discharged from all liabilities with respect to the Account.

Article XVII - Reports and Statements

The Custodian's sole duties to the Account Holder regarding reporting shall be to send or otherwise deliver the Account Holder a copy or facsimile of IRS Form 5498 and/or an annual calendar year statement of the assets of the Account within time frames established by the IRS. The Custodian may do so by making such statement available to be viewed and/or printed when the Account Holder logs into their Account. The Custodian may, but is not obligated to, furnish periodic reports or statements to the Account Holder detailing transactions performed under the Account and the value of assets held within the Account.

The Custodian shall have no liability or responsibility for transactions reported or not reported on any periodic report or statement unless the Account Holder files written exceptions or objections within thirty (30) days after receipt. If the Account Holder does not report any discrepancies the Custodian shall be relieved of all liability for the statement, discrepancy, act, or procedure reflected on the statement. Upon receipt of written notification under this Section, the Custodian's liability and responsibility shall be to fully investigate the exceptions or objections, make any adjustments, correct any entries, or otherwise reconcile the Account as may be necessary. If any such adjustments or corrections are required, the Custodian shall issue a revised statement for the reporting period(s) in question. If the Account Holder fails to notify the Custodian during the time period referenced above the report or statement shall be deemed correct and accurate.

Article XVIII - Distributions

All requests for distributions from the Account shall be in writing on a form provided by or acceptable to the Custodian. The method of distribution must be specified in writing. The tax identification number of the recipient must either be in the possession of or be provided to the Custodian before it is obligated to make a distribution.

Article XIX – Required Minimum Distribution

Traditional IRAs are subject to IRS required minimum distribution ("RMD") rules starting when the Account Holder attains age 70½. The initial distribution from the Account must begin no later than April 1st following the calendar year in which the Account Holder attains age 70 1/2 (referred to as the "required beginning date"). Subsequent distributions must be withdrawn from the Account by December 31st of each year. Pursuant to IRS regulation, failure by the Account Holder to withdraw the required distribution amount will result in an additional tax of 50% of the amount that should have been withdrawn in any given year. This penalty is in addition to ordinary income taxes the Account Holder must pay to the federal and, if applicable, state government.

To calculate the required distribution amount, the Account Holder will divide the prior December 31st balance of the Account by a life expectancy factor found in the uniform lifetime table (see Regulation section 1.401(a)(9)-9). In the event the Account Holder's spouse is the sole beneficiary of the Account and he or she is more than 10 years younger than the Account Holder, the required distribution amount is determined using the joint and last survivor table which may also be found in the Regulation section referenced above. If the Account Holder has more than one Traditional IRA, he or she must calculate the RMD separately for each account. However, there is no requirement for the Account Holder to withdraw the RMD amount from each account. As a result the Account Holder may satisfy his or her distribution requirement by taking from one account an amount sufficient to cover both accounts.

The Custodian is under no obligation to determine whether the Account Holder fulfills his or her requirement to take the required distribution amount from the Account each year and, pursuant to its policies, will not make payment until authorization is received. The only exception to this policy will be in situations where the Account has been determined by the Custodian to be abandoned. If the Custodian's efforts to locate the Account Holder prove unsuccessful, it may be required to escheat Account assets under state abandoned property laws.

The Account Holder hereby releases and holds the Custodian harmless from any loss, penalty, or tax related to his or her failure to take a required minimum distribution or in the event the Account is abandoned.

Article XX - Termination of Agreement, Resignation or Removal of Custodian

The Account Holder may terminate this Agreement at any time by delivery of written notice requesting such termination to the Custodian. The Custodian shall continue to hold the assets and distribute them in accordance with the Account Holder's instructions and the provisions of this Agreement, unless it receives alternative instructions from the Account Holder which the Custodian may follow, without liability and without any duty to ascertain whether such distribution or transfer is proper under the provisions of the Code.

Upon written request of the Account Holder, the Custodian shall transfer all assets in the Account to the Account Holder, to a qualified retirement plan, or to another individual retirement account established by the Account Holder. The Custodian is authorized to reserve such sum of money or property as it may deem advisable for payment of all its fees, costs and expenses, or for any other liabilities (such as penalties associated with the early withdrawal of any savings instrument) constituting a charge against the assets of the Account or against the Custodian, with any balance of such reserve remaining after the payment of all such items to be paid over to the Account Holder or successor account.

The Custodian may resign at any time effective thirty (30) days after it mails written notice of its resignation to the Account Holder. In such case the Account Holder must make arrangements to transfer the Account to another qualified financial institution. If the Account Holder does not complete a transfer of the Account within 30 days from the date Custodian mails the notice to the Account Holder, Custodian has the right to transfer the assets of the Account to a successor IRA Custodian that it chooses, in its sole discretion, or the Custodian may distribute the assets of the Account to the Account Holder. The Custodian shall not be liable for any actions or failures to act by the Account Holder or successor Custodian or for tax consequences the Account Holder may incur resulting from such transfer or distribution of the Account.

The Custodian may resign and distribute the entire Account or, as an alternative, specific assets of the Account in the event the Custodian requests and fails to receive updated market valuation information related to any Alternative Investment held within the Account. Such action may be necessary in order to ensure the Custodian remains authorized to act as a qualified IRA provider with the Internal Revenue Service. The Custodian may also resign should the Account value drop below any minimum balance requirement established by the Custodian.

In the event that the Custodian is merged with another entity (or comes under the control of any federal or state agency) or if the Custodian's entire organization (or any portion which includes the Account Holder's IRA) is bought by another entity, that entity shall automatically become the Custodian of the IRA, without the necessity of the prior approval of the Account Holder, but only if it is the type of organization authorized to serve as a IRA Custodian.

Article XXI - Amendments

In accordance with this section and Article VII above, the Account Holder hereby irrevocably delegates to the Custodian the right and power to amend this Agreement from time to time for both non-elective and elective amendments. Non-elective amendments concern modifications that are necessary to comply with governmental mandated changes in accordance with provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, related Regulations, and other published guidance. Elective amendments relate to changes the Custodian deems necessary for it to continue to effectively administer the Account. With respect to non-elective amendments, the Account Holder understands the Custodian reserves the right to charge an "IRS Amendment/Restatement fee," as disclosed in its IRA Fee Schedule and hereby authorizes the Custodian to deduct from or charge to the Account any such fee. In the event such amendments are necessary, the Custodian will send the Account Holder a notice within thirty (30) days after such amendment is to be effective. Regarding elective amendments, the Account Holder understands and agrees that the Custodian may, without charge or Account Holder consent, amend this Agreement for any reason provided that the Custodian sends notice to the Account Holder within thirty (30) days before the effective date of such amendment.

Article XXII - Restrictions on Pledging IRA Assets

Neither the Account Holder (including his or her Authorized Agent) nor any beneficiary shall have the right to assign, hypothecate, pledge, sell, transfer or in any manner whatsoever create a lien upon any asset of the Account, except as provided by law or this Agreement. In the event the Account Holder or a beneficiary pledges any portion of the Account as collateral for a loan, the amount so pledged will be treated as a distribution and will be included in the Account Holder/beneficiary's gross income for the taxable year in which the assets were pledged.

Article XXIII - Hold Harmless and Indemnification

By execution of the IRA Adoption Agreement the Account Holder or designated beneficiary(ies) agrees (to the extent not prohibited by federal or state law) to fully release, indemnify, hold harmless and defend the Custodian, including its' affiliated officers, directors, employees, successors and assigns, from any liability incurred by or asserted against the Custodian by reason of any disbursement, sale or investment made or actions taken by the Custodian in its' role in carrying out the Account Holder's (including his or her Authorized Agent) instructions, and from any and all other actions, claims, losses and expenses, including legal expenses and attorney's fees, (collectively "Damages") whatsoever which may arise in connection with the Account and/or this Agreement, including, without limitation, claims asserted by Account Holder, except Damages arising from the gross negligence or willful misconduct of the Custodian. In no event will the Custodian be liable for consequential or punitive damages, regardless of whether such liability is based on breach of contract or tort or otherwise. The Custodian shall not be responsible for any taxes, penalties, judgments, investment losses, or expenses incurred by the Account.

Upon demand the Account Holder agrees to reimburse or advance to the Custodian all legal fees, expenses, costs, fines, penalties and obligations incurred or to be incurred in connection with the defense, contest, prosecution or satisfaction of any claim made, threatened or asserted pertaining to any investment or action the Account Holder and/or his or her Authorized Agent directed through the Custodian, including, without limitation, claims asserted by the Account Holder, his or her Authorized Agent, any state or federal regulatory authority, or self-regulatory organization. If the Account Holder does not reimbursement or advance funds to the Custodian, the Account Holder agrees that the Custodian may deduct such amounts from the Account or commence collection efforts to recovery such costs.

Article XXIV - Account Not Guaranteed

The Custodian does not guarantee the Account from loss or depreciation. The Custodian's liability to make payment to Account Holder at any time and all times is limited to the available assets of the Account.

Article XXV - Adverse Claims

In the event that the Custodian receives any claim to the assets held in the Account which is adverse to Account Holder's interest or the interest of a named beneficiary to the Account, and the Custodian in its absolute discretion decides that the claim is, or may be, meritorious, the Custodian may withhold distribution until the claim is resolved or until instructed by a court of competent jurisdiction. As an alternative, the Custodian may deposit all or any portion of the assets in the Account Holder's Account with a court through a motion of interpleader. Deposit with the court shall relieve the Custodian of any further obligation with respect to the assets so deposited. The Custodian has the right to be reimbursed from the Account for any legal fees and costs incurred related to such undertaking.

Article XXVI - Applicable Law

Any and all questions relating to this Agreement shall be determined by application of the laws of the state of Colorado, except for Article XXVII – Arbitration, which shall be governed by the Federal Arbitration Act and Federal law. Notwithstanding, this Agreement shall be subject to all applicable federal and state laws and Regulations. Should any part of this Agreement be determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, the remaining parts shall not be affected. Neither the Account Holder's nor the Custodian's failure to enforce at any time or for any period of time any of the provisions of this Agreement shall be construed as a waiver of such provisions, or the Custodian's right thereafter to enforce each and every such provision.

Article XXVII - Arbitration

The Account Holder and Custodian shall attempt (in good faith) to resolve by negotiation any and all claims and disputes arising under or relating to this Agreement. In the event that the Account Holder and Custodian (including any agent, successor, or assign of the other) are unable to resolve their claim or dispute by negotiation, any claim or dispute arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the breach, termination, interpretation or validity thereof (except issues relating to this arbitration provisions as specified below) of the scope or applicability of this Agreement to arbitrate, shall be resolved by individual arbitration before a sole arbitrator, in the state of Colorado, county of Denver. The arbitration will be administered by Judicial Arbitration and Mediation Services ("JAMS") pursuant to its Comprehensive Arbitration Rules and Procedures. Claims and Disputes will not be resolved in any other forum or venue unless JAMS is unwilling or unable to perform such service. In such case the Custodian shall determine an alternative provider and all other provisions of this section shall apply. All issues are for the arbitrator to decide, except that issues relating to arbitrability, the scope or enforceability of this agreement to arbitrate and other items set forth in this Article XXVII, shall be for a court of competent jurisdiction to decide.

The Account Holder and Custodian agree that any such arbitration proceeding will be conducted by a retired judge who is experienced in dispute resolution. Pre-arbitration discovery will be limited to the greatest extent provided by the rules of JAMS and any arbitration award will not include factual findings or conclusions of law. No consequential or punitive damages will be awarded and the arbitrator shall have no power or authority to render any award or issue any order at any time except as permitted in this Agreement. Notwithstanding any other rules, no arbitration proceeding brought against the Custodian will be consolidated with any other arbitration proceeding without the Custodian's consent. Judgment may be entered upon any award granted in any arbitration in any court of competent jurisdiction in Denver, Colorado, or in any other court having jurisdiction for this limited purpose only. The arbitrator shall award reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses, including the expense of the arbitration, to the prevailing party. The Account Holder agrees that the Account Holder may only bring claims and disputes to arbitration only in his or her individual capacity and not as a plaintiff or class member in any purported class or representative arbitration. The prevailing party in any judicial motion to compel arbitration or confirm an arbitration award rendered pursuant to this paragraph shall be entitled to reimbursement of its reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses from the non-moving party. Arbitration is final and binding on the Account Holder and Custodian. The Account Holder and Custodian agree to waive their right to seek remedies in court, including the right to jury trial. The Account Holder and Custodian agree that any such proceedings shall be treated as confidential and shall not be disclosed to anyone else, except as may be necessary to effectuate the ruling of the arbitrator.

Payment of all filing, administration, and arbitrator fees will be governed by the JAMS' rules, unless otherwise stated below. The prevailing party in the arbitration will be entitled to reimbursement of all fees associated with the arbitration paid for by the prevailing party.

The Account Holder can choose to reject this binding agreement to arbitrate by mailing the Custodian a written opt-out notice. The opt-out notice must be postmarked no later than 30 days after the date you accept this Agreement for the first time. You must mail the opt-out notice to M2 Trust, Attn: Litigation Department, 700 17th Street, Suite 1100, Denver CO 80202. This procedure is the only way you can opt out of the agreement to arbitrate. If you opt out of the agreement to arbitrate, all other parts of the Agreement will continue to apply.

Purpose of Form

Form 5305-S is a model custodial account agreement that meets the requirements of sections 408(a) and 408(p). However, only Articles I through VII have been reviewed by the IRS. A SIMPLE individual retirement account (SIMPLE IRA) is established after the form is fully executed by both the individual (participant) and the custodian. This account must be created in the United States for the exclusive benefit of the participant and his or her beneficiaries.

Do not file Form 5305-S with the IRS. Instead, keep it with your records.

For more information on SIMPLE IRAs, including the required disclosures the custodian must give the participant, see

Pub. 590-A, Contributions to Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs); Pub. 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs); and Pub 560, Retirement Plans for Small Business (SEP, SIMPLE, and Qualified Plans).

Definitions

Participant. The participant is the person who establishes the custodial account.

Custodian. The custodian must be a bank or savings and loan association, as defined in section 408(n), or any person who has the approval of the IRS to act as custodian.

Transfer SIMPLE IRA

This SIMPLE IRA is a "transfer SIMPLE IRA" if it is not the original recipient of contributions under any SIMPLE IRA plan. The summary description requirements of section 408(l)(2) do not apply to transfer SIMPLE IRAs.

Specific Instructions

Article IV. Distributions made under this article may be made in a single sum, periodic payment, or a combination of both. The distribution option should be reviewed in the year the participant reaches age 70 $\frac{1}{2}$ to ensure that the requirements of section 408(a)(6) have been met.

Article VIII. Article VIII and any that follow it may incorporate additional provisions that are agreed to by the participant and custodian to complete the agreement. They may include, for example, definitions, investment powers, voting rights, exculpatory provisions, amendment and termination, removal of the custodian, custodian's fees, state law requirements, beginning date of distributions, accepting only cash, treatment of excess contributions, prohibited transactions with the participant, etc. Attach additional pages if necessary.

SIMPLE IRA DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

M2 TRUST IRA DISCLOSURE

M2 Trust presents the following Disclosure Statement pursuant to Internal Revenue Service Regulations which require that the following information contained herein to be given to individuals for whom a SIMPLE Individual Retirement Account (hereinafter referred to as "IRA" or "Account") is established.

RIGHT TO REVOKE YOUR SIMPLE IRA

You have the right to revoke your SIMPLE IRA within seven (7) days of the receipt of the disclosure statement. If revoked, you are entitled to a full return of the contribution you made to your SIMPLE IRA. The amount returned to you would not include an adjustment for such items as sales commissions, administrative expenses, or fluctuation in market value. You may make this revocation only by mailing or delivering a written notice to the custodian at the address listed on the application.

If you send your notice by first class mail, your revocation will be deemed mailed as of the postmark date.

If you have any questions about the procedure for revoking your SIMPLE IRA, please call the custodian at the telephone number listed on the application.

REQUIREMENTS OF A SIMPLE IRA

A. Cash Contributions – Your contribution must be in cash, unless it is a rollover contribution.

B. Maximum Contribution – The only contributions that may be made to your SIMPLE IRA are employee elective deferrals under a qualified salary reduction agreement, employer contributions, and other contributions allowed by the Code or related regulations, that are made under a SIMPLE IRA plan maintained by your employer. Employee elective deferrals may not exceed the lesser of 100 percent of your compensation for the calendar year or $12,500 for 2017 and 2018, with possible cost-of-living adjustments each year thereafter. Your employer may make additional contributions to your SIMPLE IRA within the limits prescribed in Internal Revenue Code Section (IRC Sec.) 408(p). Your employer is required to provide you with information that describes the terms of its SIMPLE IRA plan.

C. Catch-Up Contributions – If you are age 50 or older by the close of the taxable year, you may make an additional contribution to your SIMPLE IRA. The maximum additional contribution is $3,000 for 2017 and 2018, with possible cost-of-living adjustments each year thereafter.

D. Nonforfeitable – Your interest in your SIMPLE IRA is nonforfeitable.

E. Eligible Custodians – The custodian of your SIMPLE IRA must be a bank, savings and loan association, credit union, or a person or entity approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.

F. Commingling Assets – The assets of your SIMPLE IRA cannot be commingled with other property except in a common trust fund or common investment fund.

G. Life Insurance – No portion of your SIMPLE IRA may be invested in life insurance contracts.

H. Collectibles – You may not invest the assets of your SIMPLE IRA in collectibles (within the meaning of IRC Sec. 408(m)). A collectible is defined as any work of art, rug or antique, metal or gem, stamp or coin, alcoholic beverage, or other tangible personal property specified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). However, specially minted United States gold and silver coins, and certain state-issued coins are permissible investments. Platinum coins and certain gold, silver, platinum or palladium bullion (as described in IRC Sec. 408(m)(3)) also are permitted as SIMPLE IRA investments.

I. Required Minimum Distributions – You are required to take minimum distributions from your SIMPLE IRA at certain times in accordance with Treasury Regulation 1.408-8. Below is a summary of the SIMPLE IRA distribution rules.

1. You are required to take a minimum distribution from your SIMPLE IRA for the year in which you reach age 70½ and for each year thereafter. You must take your first distribution by your required beginning date, which is April 1 of the year following the year you attain age 70½. The minimum distribution for any taxable year is equal to the amount obtained by dividing the account balance at the end of the prior year by the applicable divisor.

2. The applicable divisor generally is determined using the Uniform Lifetime Table provided by the IRS. If your spouse is your sole designated beneficiary for the entire calendar year, and is more than 10 years younger than you, the required minimum distribution is determined each year using the actual joint life expectancy of you and your spouse obtained from the Joint Life Expectancy Table provided by the IRS, rather than the life expectancy divisor from the Uniform Lifetime Table.

We reserve the right to do any one of the following by April 1 of the year following the year in which you turn age 70½.

- (a) Make no distribution until you give us a proper withdrawal request
- (b) Distribute your entire SIMPLE IRA to you in a single sum payment
- (c) Determine your required minimum distribution each year based on your life expectancy calculated using the Uniform Lifetime Table, and pay those distributions to you until you direct otherwise

If you fail to remove a required minimum distribution, an additional penalty tax of 50 percent is imposed on the amount of the required minimum distribution that should have been taken but was not. You must file IRS Form 5329 along with your income tax return to report and remit any additional taxes to the IRS.

3. Your designated beneficiary is determined based on the beneficiaries designated as of the date of your death, who remain your beneficiaries as of September 30 of the year following the year of your death.

If you die on or after your required beginning date, distributions must be made to your beneficiaries over the longer of the single life expectancy of your designated beneficiaries, or your remaining life expectancy. If a beneficiary other than a person or qualified trust as defined in the Treasury Regulations is named, you will be treated as having no designated beneficiary of your SIMPLE IRA for purposes of determining the distribution period. If there is no designated beneficiary of your SIMPLE IRA, distributions will commence using your single life expectancy, reduced by one in each subsequent year.

If you die before your required beginning date, the entire amount remaining in your account will, at the election of your designated beneficiaries, either

- (a) be distributed by December 31 of the year containing the fifth anniversary of your death, or
- (b) be distributed over the remaining life expectancy of your designated beneficiaries.

If your spouse is your sole designated beneficiary, he or she must elect either option (a) or (b) by the earlier of December 31 of the year containing the fifth anniversary of your death, or December 31 of the year life expectancy payments would be required to begin. Your designated beneficiaries, other than a spouse who is the sole designated beneficiary, must elect either option (a) or (b) by December 31 of the year following the year of your death. If no election is made, distribution will be calculated in accordance with option (b). In the case of distributions under option (b), distributions must commence by December 31 of the year following the year of your death. Generally, if your spouse is the designated beneficiary, distributions need not commence until December 31 of the year you would have attained age 70½, if later. If a beneficiary other than a person or qualified trust as defined in the Treasury Regulations is named, you will be treated as having no designated beneficiary of your SIMPLE IRA for purposes of determining the distribution period. If there is no designated beneficiary of your SIMPLE IRA, the entire SIMPLE IRA must be distributed by December 31 of the year containing the fifth anniversary of your death.

A spouse beneficiary will have all rights as granted under the Code or applicable Treasury Regulations to treat your SIMPLE IRA as his or her own.

If we so choose, for any reason (e.g., due to limitations of our charter or bylaws), we may require that a beneficiary of a deceased SIMPLE IRA owner take total distribution of all SIMPLE IRA assets by December 31 of the year following the year of death.

If your beneficiary fails to remove a required minimum distribution after your death, an additional penalty tax of 50 percent is imposed on the amount of the required minimum distribution that should have been taken but was not. Your beneficiary must file IRS Form 5329 along with his or her income tax return to report and remit any additional taxes to the IRS.

J. Qualifying Longevity Annuity Contracts and RMDs – A qualifying longevity annuity contract (QLAC) is a deferred annuity contract that, among other requirements, must guarantee lifetime income starting no later than age 85. The total premiums paid to QLACs in your IRAs must not exceed 25 percent (up to $125,000) of the combined value of your IRAs (excluding Roth IRAs). The $125,000 limit is subject to cost-of-living adjustments each year.

When calculating your RMD, you may reduce the prior year end account value by the value of QLACs that your SIMPLE IRA holds as investments.

For more information on QLACs, you may wish to refer to the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF ESTABLISHING A SIMPLE IRA

A. Deductibility for SIMPLE IRA Contributions – You may not take a deduction for the amounts contributed to your SIMPLE IRA as either employee elective deferrals or employer contributions. However, employee elective deferrals to a SIMPLE IRA will reduce your taxable income. Further, employer SIMPLE IRA contributions, including earnings, will not be taxable to you until you take a distribution from your SIMPLE IRA.

Participation in your employer’s SIMPLE IRA plan renders you an active participant for purposes of determining whether or not you can deduct contributions to a Traditional IRA.

B. Contribution Deadline – SIMPLE IRA deferral contributions must be deposited into the SIMPLE IRA as soon as administratively possible, but in no event later than 30 days following the month in which you would have otherwise received the money. Employer matching or nonelective contributions must be deposited no later than the due date for filing the employer’s tax return, including extensions.

C. Tax Credit for Contributions – You may be eligible to receive a tax credit for your SIMPLE IRA deferrals. This credit may not exceed $1,000 in a given year. You may be eligible for this tax credit if you are

- age 18 or older as of the close of the taxable year,
- not a dependent of another taxpayer, and
- not a full-time student.

The credit is based upon your income (see chart below) and will range from 0 to 50 percent of eligible contributions. In order to determine the amount of your contributions, add all of the deferrals made to your SIMPLE IRA and reduce these contributions by any distributions that you may have taken during the testing period. The testing period begins two years prior to the year for which the credit is sought and ends on the tax return due date (including extensions) for the year for which the credit is sought. In order to determine your tax credit, multiply the applicable percentage from the chart below by the amount of your contributions that do not exceed $2,000.

2017 Adjusted Gross Income*			Applicable Percentage
Joint Return	Head of a Household	All Other Cases
$1 - $37,000	$1 - $27,750	$1 - $18,500	50
$37,001 – $40,000	$27,751 - $30,000	$18,501 - $20,000	20
$40,001 - $62,000	$30,001 - $46,500	$20,001 - $31,000	10
Over $62,000	Over $46,500	Over $31,000	0

2018 Adjusted Gross Income*			Applicable Percentage
Joint Return	Head of a Household	All Other Cases
$1 - $38,000	$1 - $28,500	$1 - $19,000	20
$38,001 – $41,000	$28,501 - $30,750	$19,001 - $20,500	10
$41,001 - $63,000	$30,751 - $47,250	$20,501 - $31,500	0

*Adjusted gross income (AGI) includes foreign earned income and income from Guam, America Samoa, North Mariana Islands, and Puerto Rico. AGI limits are subject to cost-of-living adjustments each year.

D. Tax-Deferred Earnings – The investment earnings of your SIMPLE IRA are not subject to federal income tax until distributions are made (or, in certain instances, when distributions are deemed to be made).

E. Excess Contributions – If you defer more than the maximum allowable limit for the tax year, you have an excess deferral and must correct it. Excess deferrals, adjusted for earnings, must be distributed from your SIMPLE IRA.

If your employer mistakenly contributes too much to your SIMPLE IRA as an employer contribution, your employer may affect distribution of the employer excess amount, adjusted for earnings through the date of distribution. The amount distributed to the employer is not includible in your gross income.

F. Income Tax Withholding – Any withdrawal from your SIMPLE IRA is subject to federal income tax withholding. You may, however, elect not to have withholding apply to your SIMPLE IRA withdrawal. If withholding is applied to your withdrawal, not less than 10 percent of the amount withdrawn must be withheld.

G. Early Distribution Penalty Tax – If you receive a SIMPLE IRA distribution before you attain age 59½, an additional early distribution penalty tax of 10 percent (25 percent if less than two years have passed since you first participated in a SIMPLE IRA plan sponsored by your employer) will apply to the taxable amount of the distribution unless one of the following exceptions apply. 1) Death. After your death, payments made to your beneficiary are not subject to the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. 2) Disability. If you are disabled at the time of distribution, you are not subject to the additional 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. In order to be disabled, a physician must determine that your impairment can be expected to result in death or to be of long, continued, and indefinite duration. 3) Substantially equal periodic payments. You are not subject to the additional 10 percent early distribution penalty tax if you are taking a series of substantially equal periodic payments (at least annual payments) over your life expectancy or the joint life expectancy of you and your beneficiary. You must continue these payments for the longer of five years or until you reach age 59½. 4) Unreimbursed medical expenses. If you take payments to pay for unreimbursed medical expenses that exceed a specified percentage of your adjusted gross income, you will not be subject to the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. For further detailed information and effective dates, you may obtain IRS Publication 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), from the IRS. The medical expenses may be for you, your spouse, or any dependent listed on your tax return. 5)

Health insurance premiums. If you are unemployed and have received unemployment compensation for 12 consecutive weeks under a federal or state program, you may take payments from your SIMPLE IRA to pay for health insurance premiums without incurring the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. 6) Higher education expenses. Payments taken for certain qualified higher education expenses for you, your spouse, or the children or grandchildren of you or your spouse, will not be subject to the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. 7) First-time homebuyer. You may take payments from your SIMPLE IRA to use toward qualified acquisition costs of buying or building a principal residence. The amount you may take for this reason may not exceed a lifetime maximum of $10,000. The payment must be used for qualified acquisition costs within 120 days of receiving the distribution. 8) IRS levy. Payments from your SIMPLE IRA made to the U.S. government in response to a federal tax levy are not subject to the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. 9) Qualified reservist distributions. If you are a qualified reservist member called to active duty for more than 179 days or an indefinite period, the payments you take from your SIMPLE IRA during the active duty period are not subject to the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax.

You must file IRS Form 5329 along with your income tax return to the IRS to report and remit any additional taxes or to claim a penalty tax exception.

H. Rollovers and Conversions – Your SIMPLE IRA may be rolled over to another SIMPLE IRA, Traditional IRA, or an eligible employer-sponsored retirement plan of yours, may receive rollover contributions, or may be converted to a Roth IRA, provided that all of the applicable rollover and conversion rules are followed. Rollover is a term used to describe a movement of cash or other property to your SIMPLE IRA from another SIMPLE IRA, Traditional IRA, or from your employer's qualified retirement plan, 403(a) annuity plan, 403(b) tax-sheltered annuity, or 457(b) eligible governmental deferred compensation plan provided a two-year period has been satisfied. The amount rolled over is not subject to taxation or the additional 10 percent early distribution penalty tax. Conversion is a term used to describe the movement of SIMPLE IRA assets to a Roth IRA. A conversion generally is a taxable event. The general rollover and conversion rules are summarized below. These transactions are often complex. If you have any questions regarding a rollover or conversion, please see a competent tax advisor.

1. SIMPLE IRA-to-SIMPLE IRA Rollovers. Assets distributed from your SIMPLE IRA may be rolled over to a SIMPLE IRA of yours if the requirements of IRC Sec. 408(d)(3) are met. A proper SIMPLE IRA-to-SIMPLE IRA rollover is completed if all or part of the distribution is rolled over not later than 60 days after the distribution is received. In the case of a distribution for a first-time homebuyer where there was a delay or cancellation of the purchase, the 60-day rollover period may be extended to 120 days.

You are permitted to roll over only one distribution from an IRA (Traditional, Roth, or SIMPLE) in a 12-month period, regardless of the number of IRAs you own. A distribution may be rolled over to the same IRA or to another IRA that is eligible to receive the rollover. For more information on rollover limitations, you may obtain IRS Publication 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), from the IRS or refer to the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

2. Traditional IRA-to-SIMPLE IRA Rollovers. Assets distributed from your Traditional IRA may be rolled over to a SIMPLE IRA if the requirements of IRC Sec. 408(d)(3) are met and two years have passed since you first participated in a SIMPLE IRA plan sponsored by your employer. A proper Traditional IRA-to-SIMPLE IRA rollover is completed if all or part of the distribution is rolled over not later than 60 days after the distribution is received. In the case of a distribution for a first-time homebuyer where there was a delay or cancellation of the purchase, the 60-day rollover period may be extended to 120 days.

You are permitted to roll over only one distribution from an IRA (Traditional, Roth, or SIMPLE) in a 12-month period, regardless of the number of IRAs you own. A distribution may be rolled over to the same IRA or to another IRA that is eligible to receive the rollover. For more information on rollover limitations, you may wish to obtain IRS Publication 590-B, Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), from the IRS or refer to the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

3. Employer-Sponsored Retirement Plan-to-SIMPLE IRA Rollovers.

You may roll over, directly or indirectly, any eligible rollover distribution from an eligible employer-sponsored retirement plan to a SIMPLE IRA provided two years have passed since you first participated in the SIMPLE IRA plan sponsored by your employer. An eligible rollover distribution is defined generally as any distribution from a qualified retirement plan, 403(a) annuity, 403(b) tax-sheltered annuity, 457(b) eligible governmental deferred compensation plan, or federal Thrift Savings Plan unless it is a required minimum distribution, hardship distribution, part of a certain series of substantially equal periodic payments, corrective distributions of excess contributions, excess deferrals, excess annual additions and any income allocable to the excess, deemed loan distribution, dividends on employer securities, the cost of life insurance coverage, or a distribution of Roth elective deferrals from a 401(k), 403(b), governmental 457(b), or federal Thrift Savings Plan.

If you elect to receive your rollover distribution prior to placing it in a SIMPLE IRA, thereby conducting an indirect rollover, your plan administrator generally will be required to withhold 20 percent of your distribution as a payment of income taxes. When completing the rollover, you may make up out of pocket the amount withheld and roll over the full amount distributed from your employer-sponsored retirement plan. To qualify as a rollover, your eligible rollover distribution generally must be rolled over to your SIMPLE IRA not later than 60 days after you receive the distribution. In the case of a plan loan offset due to plan termination or severance from employment, the deadline for completing the rollover is your tax return due date (including extensions) for the year in which the offset occurs. Alternatively, you may claim the withheld amount as income, and pay the applicable income tax, and if you are under age 59½, the 10 percent early distribution penalty tax (unless an exception to the penalty applies).

As an alternative to the indirect rollover, your employer generally must give you the option to directly roll over your employer-sponsored retirement plan balance to a SIMPLE IRA. If you elect the direct rollover option, your eligible rollover distribution will be paid directly to the SIMPLE IRA (or other eligible employer-sponsored retirement plan) that you designate. The 20 percent withholding requirements do not apply to direct rollovers.

4. SIMPLE IRA-to-Traditional IRA Rollovers. Assets distributed from your SIMPLE IRA may be rolled over to your Traditional IRA without IRS penalty tax, provided two years have passed since you first participated in a SIMPLE IRA plan sponsored by your employer. As with SIMPLE IRA-to-SIMPLE IRA r

SELF-DIRECTED REQUIREMENTS

Under the Individual Retirement Custodial Account sponsored by M2 Trust, you are required to direct us with respect to the investment of funds in your Account. In the absence of direction from you, or your Authorized Agent we will not make or dispose of any investments or distribute any funds held in your Account, except as provided for under the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement. We have no power or duty to question the direction of a specified investment, to review any investment held in your Account or to make any suggestions to you with respect to the investment, retention or disposition of any asset in your Account. We will not be liable for any loss of any kind which may result by reason of any action taken by us in accordance with direction from you or your Authorized Agent, or by reason of any failure to act because of the absence of any directions. We may refuse to execute an investment direction if we determine that the investment would not be administratively feasible.

PROHIBITED TRANSACTIONS

Should you or any disqualified person engage in a prohibited transaction in connection with your Account at any time during the year (as described in IRC Section 4975) your Account stops being an IRA as of the first day of that year. In other words, the entire account will lose its tax-exempt status and you will be required to include the fair market value of the assets of your IRA in your income for the tax year in which the prohibited transaction took place. In addition, you may incur certain penalties for engaging in the transaction as well as a premature distribution penalty if you are under age 59 ½. Examples of a prohibited transaction include, but are not limited to, you or a disqualified person: 1) borrowing money from the IRA; 2) either selling an asset to or buying an asset from the IRA; and 3) having personal use of any asset of the IRA.

It is your responsibility, not ours, to determine if any activity in your IRA constitutes a prohibited transaction. We reserve the right to ask you for clarification about any activity that you authorize. In the event that you fail to provide us with clarifying information, we reserve the right to take whatever action we deem appropriate, including resigning from your Account and distributing the assets to you. In the event we fail to request clarifying information, it should not be construed as a determination by us that a prohibited transaction does not exist.

PLEDGING AN ACCOUNT AS SECURITY

If you use your Account or any portion thereof as security for a loan, that part is treated as a distribution to you and is included in your gross income. You may also have to pay a 10% penalty tax for an early distribution if you are under age 59 ½.

INVESTMENT OF UNDIRECTED CASH

In the event that cash is received, or otherwise held, by us (as Custodian) for which you have not provided us with specific investment instructions, by adopting this IRA (and the provisions contained herein) you automatically direct us to deposit all such cash in our Cash Management Account. The rate paid to you from cash balances in the Cash Management Account will be determined by the Custodian in its sole discretion. The excess of the interest earned from each bank participating in the Cash Management Account over the amount paid to you will be retained by the Custodian as a fee and will be deducted directly from any interest received from the participating banks. The interest earned by you will be posted to your Account no less than monthly, until you give us an investment direction with respect to such cash.

For Automatic Rollover IRAs, funds received from an employer on behalf of an employee who no longer works at the company will have their balances automatically placed into our Cash Management Account. Under this arrangement the ex-employee has the right, upon notice to us, to: 1) maintain the account at M2 Trust; 2) take distribution of the available cash balance; or 3) transfer the balance to another qualified IRA Custodian, subject to our fees as disclosed in our published IRA Fee Schedule.

Our Cash Management Account consists of deposit accounts at non-affiliated bank(s), each a depository institution regulated by bank regulatory agencies under various federal or state banking laws and regulations. Deposits from our Cash Management Account maintained in non-affiliated bank(s) are obligations of each non-affiliated bank and are not obligations of, or guaranteed by, M2 Trust. M2 Trust does not guarantee in any way the financial condition of the non-affiliated bank(s) nor are we responsible for any insured or uninsured portion of any deposits with the non-affiliated bank(s).

Balances in our Cash Management Account are insured by the FDIC, an independent agency of the U.S. government, up to a maximum amount in accordance with the rules of the FDIC. Deposits at each of the non-affiliated bank(s) are insured by the FDIC up to a maximum amount of $250,000 per depositor in each insurable capacity (e.g., individual or joint). If you have deposits at the non-affiliated bank(s) outside of our Cash Management Account, you must aggregate all such deposits with your Cash Management Account balance for purposes of determining FDIC coverage. The application of FDIC insurance coverage limits by account type is illustrated by several common factual situations discussed below. To assist you with calculating your aggregated deposits and the associated coverage, the FDIC has an Electronic Deposit Insurance Estimator available at <https://www.fdic.gov/edie/>.

Single Accounts - Accounts owned by one person, and titled in that person's name only, are added together and the total is insured up to $250,000 at each non-affiliated bank. This account category does not include joint accounts, certain trusts, and individual retirement accounts, which are protected in a separate category and discussed below.

Custodial Accounts - Funds in accounts held by a custodian (for example, under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act or the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act) are not treated as owned by the custodian, but are added to other deposits of the minor and insured up to $250,000 in the aggregate per non-affiliated bank.

Joint Accounts - For accounts owned by two or more people, each person's share is insured up to $250,000 separately at each non-affiliated bank in addition to the $250,000 allowed on other deposits owned individually in one or more single accounts.

Revocable Trust Accounts - A revocable trust account indicates an intention that the deposit will belong to one or more named beneficiaries upon the death of the owner(s). A revocable trust can be terminated at the discretion of the owner. There are two types of revocable trusts: informal trusts - known as Payable on Death (POD) or "Totten Trusts" - and formal trusts - known as "living" or "family" trusts. Both informal and formal revocable trusts are insured up to $250,000 per owner for each beneficiary if the FDIC requirements are met. All deposits that an owner holds in both informal and formal revocable trusts are added together for insurance purposes and the insurance limit is applied to the combined total. A revocable trust account established by a husband and wife that names the husband and wife as sole beneficiaries will be treated as a joint account and will be aggregated with other joint accounts subject to the rules described above under "Joint Accounts."

Irrevocable Trust Accounts - Deposits in an account established pursuant to one or more irrevocable trust agreements created by the same person will be insured for up to $250,000 per non-affiliated bank for the interest of each beneficiary provided that the beneficiary's interest in the account is non-contingent (i.e., capable of determination without evaluation of contingencies). The deposit insurance of each beneficiary's interest is separate from the coverage provided for other accounts maintained by the beneficiary, the grantor, the trustee or other beneficiaries. A beneficiary's interest in funds held in irrevocable trust accounts created by the same person will be aggregated and insured up to $250,000 at each non-affiliated bank.

Individual Retirement Accounts - Deposits held in self-directed retirement accounts, including Traditional, Roth, SEP and SIMPLE IRAs, are eligible for FDIC insurance of up to $250,000 in the aggregate.

Please note that you, and not M2 Trust, are responsible for monitoring the total amount of your deposits at non-affiliated bank(s) in order to determine the extent of FDIC insurance coverage available. If you have total deposits at the non-affiliated bank(s), including balances through our Cash Management Account that exceed FDIC insurance coverage limits, amounts in excess of FDIC coverage limits will not be insured by the FDIC. You can obtain a list of banks participating in our Cash Management Account and your balances on deposit in such banks by making a written request to the Custodian.

In the unlikely event that federal deposit insurance payments become necessary, payments of principal plus unpaid and accrued interest will be made to you by the FDIC. There is no specific time period during which the FDIC must make insurance payments available. Furthermore, you may be required to provide certain documentation to the FDIC before insurance payments are made. If you have additional questions about FDIC insurance, you may wish to seek advice from your own attorney concerning FDIC insurance coverage of deposits held in more than one capacity. You may obtain publicly available information by contacting the FDIC, Office of Consumer Affairs, by letter (550 17th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20429), by phone (877-275-3342 or 800-925-4618 (TDD)), or by accessing the FDIC website at www.fdic.gov.

UNRELATED BUSINESS TAX INCOME

There is an exception to the tax-exempt status of your IRA when you invest in any security which is debt-financed, or an investment, such as a limited partnership, which actively conducts a trade or business rather than receiving passive income or which is publicly traded. Unrelated Business Income Tax (UBIT) from such an investment may be taxable to your Account if it exceeds $1,000 in any tax year. For purposes of the $1,000 limit, all of your IRA accounts are considered to be one account. These taxes are an expense of your Account and should be paid by you using assets in your Account, and should be filed utilizing IRS Form 990-T. We do not calculate UBIT for your Account and do not prepare Form 990-T. If your Account has any investment which generates UBIT, you are responsible for preparing or having prepared on behalf of your IRA Account the appropriate 990-T form. Upon completion, the form should be forwarded to us for filing, along with instructions to pay any required tax.

VALUATION OF ACCOUNT ASSET

We are responsible for providing you with a fair market value ("FMV") of the assets in your Account no less frequently than annually. We will make a good faith effort to ascertain FMV of publicly traded securities using various outside sources available to us. However, we will not guarantee the accuracy of prices obtained from quotation services, independent appraisal services, investment sponsors or parties related thereto or other outside sources. Values for brokerage accounts shall be equal to the total equity value of the account and shall reflect only those assets which are priced by the brokerage firm. Individual assets held within the brokerage account may not be listed or priced individually on statements furnished by us. You should refer to your brokerage statement for an individual listing and valuation of each security held within such account.

We shall have no duty or responsibility to value Alternative Investments. These assets will be valued at cost (original purchase price) unless you, the investment entity, or a qualified third party provides us with documentation, in a form and from a source acceptable to us, which provides an alternative value. In the absence of direction from the Secretary of the Treasurer or his authorized representative to the contrary, the valuation of an Alternative Investment, including, but not limited to, hedge funds, limited partnerships, limited liability companies, mortgages, privately held stock, precious metals, promissory notes, real estate, trust deeds, and other entities or assets determined by us, must be provided to us either by: 1) you; 2) the investment entity; or 3) qualified third party (acceptable to us) chosen by you. All expense related to the valuation of an Alternative Investment must be paid from your IRA Account.

Alternative Investments should be valued as of December 31st and provided to us in a timely manner, but in no event later than January 15th of each year or such other date as determined by us. Due to their nature, the valuation of an Alternative Investment may be difficult to obtain or impossible to verify. You accept full responsibility for providing the required FMV information in a timely manner, as well as the accuracy of such information. We make no representations or warranties with respect to any valuation received and you direct us to accept the provided FMV. Failure of an investment entity, third party, or you to provide the FMV information in a timely manner shall be the responsibility of the respective party and we shall have no duty or obligation to take any steps to secure the Alternative Investment FMV information for your Account. We may reflect a valuation of zero if an asset is reported by the investment entity, or other reliable source, as having no market value or is in bankruptcy and a final disposition of the asset has been determined by legal proceeding. We reserve the right to resolve any differences in FMV in any manner we deem appropriate.

We may require, before processing your request to purchase an Alternative Investment, or at such other time as we deem appropriate, the investment entity or third party selected by you to sign documents confirming their obligation to provide annual valuations to us no later than January 15th or such other date as determined by us. In such case you are responsible for ensuring such documentation is provided to us. Failure or delay of our receipt of such documentation may result in processing delays. We will not be liable to you for any loss of income or potential gains from a delayed investment under such circumstances. In the event we fail to receive FMV information on or before January 15th or such other date as determined by us, we may list the value of the Alternative Investment at its original acquisition cost or carry forward the last known value. Should no FMV information be received for a period exceeding 24 months, we may, but shall not be required to, either distribute the asset to you for which no valuation has been received or resign as Custodian from your Account and distribute the Account to you. In the event of a distribution we will be required to issue IRS Form 1099-R reflecting the last known value of the asset(s). We shall have no responsibility or liability for any tax, financial or other consequences relating to or arising from such distribution. Prior to any such distribution, we will provide thirty (30) days written notice to you of our intent to distribute and/or resign from your Account. During that time period you will have the opportunity to make necessary arrangements to have updated valuation information (acceptable to us) provided so that we can fulfill our duties under IRS regulations. In such cases we may assess a special services fee to your Account, as disclosed in our IRA Fee Schedule, for the additional work necessary to provide notice to you and, if applicable, updating your Account for any valuation information received.

Under the terms of the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement you indemnify and hold us harmless for any loss, damage, tax, penalty or other consequences to you or your Account arising from or relating to the valuation of an Alternative Investment including our accepting, reporting or acting upon any FMV supplied by you, an investment entity, or third party. Should we be assessed any tax or penalty for reporting improper valuations to the IRS, you agree to fully reimburse us for such tax or penalty and any associated expense incurred by us.

Valuations are approximations and are provided as a general guide, they do not necessarily reflect actual market value. Valuation information should not be used by you as the basis for making, retaining, disposing of, or distributing an investment. Such a decision should only be made by you after contacting the investment entity and/or your legal, tax, financial or other advisor(s).

GROWTH IN VALUE NOT GUARANTEED

The value of assets in your IRA Account at any given time will depend upon the amount of your deposits (including contributions, rollovers, transfers, income, etc.), the mix of assets, the performance of the investments you have chosen, and the applicable fees charged to your Account. Accordingly, growth and value of your IRA Account is not guaranteed, and the value of the assets in your Account at any given point in time in the future is impossible to predict. Our liability to make payment to you at any and all times is limited to the available assets of your Account.

NON-DEPOSIT INVESTMENTS NOT FDIC INSURED

FDIC insurance does NOT apply to investments held within a self-directed IRA unless they are certificates of deposits or other interest-bearing accounts offered by a banking institution. As limited as described herein, FDIC insurance will only apply to that portion of your funds deposited in our Cash Management Account. In such case, deposits are insured pursuant to the rules established by the FDIC. Deposits into our Cash Management Account are insured up to $250,000. Amounts in excess of $250,000 may not be insured. FDIC coverage does not apply to IRA funds which you direct into other types of investments. Securities are not bank deposits, are not obligations of or guaranteed by us, and involve investment risks, including possible loss of your principal investment.

AUTHORIZED AGENT

If you designate an Authorized Agent for your Account, as defined in the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement, you are subject to the following provisions:

1. You recognize that M2 Trust is entitled to rely on directions from your Authorized Agent, and you agree that M2 Trust shall be under no duty to make an investigation with respect to any instructions received from such individual or entity. You also recognize that your Authorized Agent may choose to communicate investment directions to us via an agent, such as his office staff or broker/dealer organization;
2. You are solely responsible for managing the investment of your IRA Account, and for directing your Authorized Agent. All instructions, directions, and/or confirmations received by us from your Authorized Agent shall be assumed to have been authorized by you;
3. You recognize that such individual or entity is your agent, and not an agent, employee, or representative of M2 Trust;
4. You understand that your Authorized Agent may be a registered representative of a broker/dealer organization, a financial advisor, registered investment advisor, or other person/entity that you deem acceptable;
5. You understand that M2 Trust has not made and will not make any recommendation or investigation with respect to your Authorized Agent, nor do we compensate your Authorized Agent in any manner;
6. You may remove your Authorized Agent and either designate a new Authorized Agent or choose not to designate any such agent, by written notice to M2 Trust on a form acceptable to us. However, removal of an Authorized Agent will not have the effect of canceling any instruction, direction, or confirmation which has been received by us from the Authorized Agent prior to the date that notice of removal is received and processed by M2 Trust; and
7. You agree to indemnify and hold M2 Trust, including its' affiliated officers, directors, employees, successors and assigns, harmless from any and all liability or claims, including, but not limited to, damages, court costs, legal fees, and costs of investigation as a result of (i) any loss or diminution of your IRA funds resulting from changes in the market value of such funds; (ii) reliance or action taken in reliance on written or oral instructions received from you or your Authorized Agent; (iii) any exercise or failure to exercise investment direction authority by you or by your Authorized Agent; (iv) M2 Trust's refusal on advice of counsel to act in accordance with any exercise of investment direction by you or your Authorized Agent; (v) any other act or failure to act by you or your Authorized Agent; (vi) any prohibited transaction or plan disqualification due to any actions taken or not taken by M2 Trust in reliance on directions from you or your Authorized Agent; or (vii) any other act M2 Trust takes in good faith hereunder.

QUALIFIED CHARITABLE DISTRIBUTIONS

If you have attained age 70½, you may be eligible to make a "qualified charitable distribution" of up to $100,000 per year from your IRAs. A qualified charitable distribution is not subject to federal income tax and no tax deduction is allowed for the charitable contribution. A qualified charitable distribution must be distributed directly from the IRA Custodian to a qualified charitable organization as defined by the Code. For assistance in determining whether you are eligible to make a qualified charitable distribution from your IRA, consult your tax advisor.

STATE UNCLAIMED PROPERTY LAW DISCLOSURE

The assets in your custodial account are subject to state unclaimed property laws which provide that if no activity occurs in your account within the time period specified by the particular state law, your assets must be transferred to the appropriate state. We are required by law to advise you that your assets may be transferred to an appropriate state in compliance with these state laws.

SPOUSAL PROVISIONS FOR SAME SEX COUPLES

Effective September 16, 2013, same-sex couples who are legally or lawfully married in a state or country that recognizes same-sex marriage will be treated as a "spouse" for federal tax purposes. The IRS will look to state or foreign law to validate the marriage. Same-sex couples who are in a civil union or domestic partnership will not be afforded the same federal tax treatment.

CUSTODIAN FEE DISCLOSURE

Our fees and charges are disclosed in its IRA Fee Schedule which is included with each IRA packet. The fee schedule may be amended from time to time upon thirty (30) days written notice to you. In addition to establishment, annual administration, transaction, and account closing fees, we reserve the right to charge or collect other fees as disclosed in its fee schedule and the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement. Examples of additional fees include, but are not limited to, stop payment fees, wire charges, returned check fees, safekeeping fees, or administrative review fees related to Alternative Investments. You are responsible for payment of all fees, expenses or other charges relating to your IRA Account. If you do not pay such charges upon receipt of any invoice or credit card billing, the fees and charges will be withdrawn from your Account. In the event an Account does not have sufficient funds to pay outstanding fees we reserve the right to liquidate assets of your Account and/or resign as Custodian, as well as take other measures, as disclosed in the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement. With respect to Automatic Rollover IRAs, we may pay an expense reimbursement, one time or recurring, to third party administrators or record keepers providing services to your previous employer's retirement plan. Such reimbursements help cover expenses associated with providing your information to M2 Trust and processing the distribution of funds from your employer's plan. Expense reimbursements will be paid by M2 Trust from its' fees and will not be deducted from your Account.

M2 Trust will perform sub-accounting related to its Cash Management Account and will receive a fee for these services as disclosed in the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement. In addition, certain mutual funds in which you may invest may pay us 12b-1, sub-transfer agent, or other similar fees as disclosed in the fund's prospectus and the Individual Retirement Custodial Agreement.

IRS APPROVAL AS TO FORM

The M2 Trust IRA Custodial Account Agreement is treated as approved as to form by the Internal Revenue Service since it utilizes precise language of Form 5305-A or 5305-RA currently provided by the Internal Revenue Service, plus additional language permitted by such form. The Internal Revenue Service approval is a determination only as to the form of the Account and does not represent a determination of the merits of the Account.

APPOINTMENT OF SUCCESSOR CUSTODIAN

We may resign at any time effective thirty (30) days after we mail written notification of our resignation to you at the last known address maintained in our file. In such case you must make arrangements to transfer your Account to another qualified financial institution. If you do not complete a transfer of your Account within 30 days from the date we mail the notice to you, we have the right to transfer the assets of your Account to a successor IRA Custodian that we choose, in our sole discretion, or we may distribute the assets of your Account to you. We shall not be liable for any actions or failures to act by you, any successor Custodian, or for tax consequences you may incur resulting from such transfer or distribution of your Account.

USA PATRIOT ACT INFORMATION

Federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify, and record information that identifies each person who opens an account in an effort to help fight funding of terrorism and money laundering. What this means to you: When you request that an IRA be established in your name, we will require that you provide us with certain information before opening your Account. This includes your name, home address, social security number, and date of birth. We may also ask to see your driver's license or other identifying documents. We are required to compare your identity to lists of persons and organizations maintained by any federal agency designated by the Department of the Treasury. If your name appears on any of these lists, we must do each of the following: 1) refuse to open your Account; 2) close your Account if it is already open; and 3) notify federal authorities and follow all federal directives. If you attempt to falsify or conceal your identity, we may be required to file a Suspicious Activity Report.

We may also use independent sources to verify identifying information. Federal law requires us to retain the identification information for a certain period of time and may require that we provide this information to federal authorities without notice to you. This notice is in addition to our Privacy Disclosure and may describe potential disclosures of non-public personal information that were not known to us at the time that the Privacy Disclosure was prepared.

With respect to an Automatic Rollover IRA, federal regulators have provided guidance (Notice 2005-5) stating that we will not be required to implement our Customer Identification Program ("CIP") until a lost participant of an employer plan first contacts us to assert ownership or exercise control over the Account. Accordingly, CIP compliance is not required at the time an employer or plan administrator establishes an IRA on behalf of a former employee for purposes of a complying with the automatic rollover requirements of § 401(a)(31)(B).

STATEMENTS

We will issue quarterly account statements to you electronically, which you can review by accessing and enrolling in our online portal known as "AccuNet." You can access our online portal from our website www.M2Trustservices.com. Hard copy statements are available upon request subject for a fee (see our IRA Fee Schedule for the current fee). In addition, each year we will mail IRS form 5498 to you within time frames established by the IRS.

For any investment which pays or reinvests earnings, such transactions may not be reflected on your account statement until the quarter in which we receive payment confirmation from the investment sponsor verifying the transaction and investment position. Please keep this in mind when reviewing your account statement. Your account statement (and any reported values therein) should not be used as the basis for making, retaining or disposing of an asset.

You should review each account statement carefully and promptly report any discrepancies to us within 30 days of the statement date. If we do not receive your written objections within this time period, we shall be relieved of all liability for the report, discrepancy, act or procedure reflected on the statement.

IRA FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

Because this is a Self-Directed Individual Retirement Account, no projection of the growth of your IRA can reasonably be shown or guaranteed. Factors influencing the value of your IRA Account will include the investments you or your duly Authorized Agent choose for your IRA, IRA fees charged by us, and the earnings you receive from investments. The investments available under this self-directed IRA include a wide range of public ally and non-publicly traded assets. It is therefore impossible to estimate the value of the IRA assets at any given future point in time. This IRA will be subject to fees including establishment, annual, transaction, cash management, special services, and termination charged by us. Please refer to M2 Trust's published fee schedule for more information about our fees. We reserve the right to change our fees after notice to you, as provided in the IRA Custodial Agreement. In addition, depending on the investments that you or your Authorized Agent choose, your IRA may be subject to sales commissions or other fees charged by broker dealers, investment companies, etc. All cash received for your Account will be placed in our Cash Management Account awaiting investment directions from you. Accounts that close during a month will not earn interest for that month. With respect to earnings, the method for computing and allocating earnings (interest, dividends, etc.) on your investments will vary with the nature and issuer of the investment chosen. Please refer to the prospectus or contract of the investment(s) of your choice for the method(s) used for computing and allocating annual earnings.
